

Need For Germantown TN Rodent Exterminators On The Rise As Fall Approaches

October 05, 2018

October 05, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

With the fall season approaching, roof rats and squirrels are increasingly entering attics in Germantown, Tennessee, to find a place to breed and have their young. With the increasing demand for rodent extermination services, Patriot Wildlife Control is offering one of a kind rodent removal packages to service the residents of Germantown TN, including a unique proprietary system to seal up homes making them guaranteed to be completely rodent proof.

Richard Hodges, a spokesperson for the company says that they are pleased to bring their brand of roof rat removal and squirrel control to Germantown, TN. He states, "The biggest piece of advice that can not be stressed enough, is asking too see pictures of rodent proofing services when an estimate is being provided. Many start-up companies will give a very low cost for rodent exclusion work just to get the job and will not outline the exact areas or show pictures of work. There are many crucial areas of rodent entry that must be rodent proofed with specific materials immediately after rodent removal is completed."

The company states that squirrels in the attic, along with roof rats in the attic can be a major issue. Squirrels and roof rats can gnaw through the fascia board and gain access to a home's attic, where it could set up a nest and cause a number of issues. They also state that they do not recommend that homeowners attempt to remove squirrel infestations on their own for a number of reasons.

"Squirrels and rats in the attic can be a complete nightmare for a homeowner. It's estimated that a large percentage of home and business fires are caused by rats and squirrels in the attic gnawing wires. Along with this, rodent droppings, urine and trampling can destroy attic insulation," says Hodges.

More about the removal of squirrels and rodents can be seen on the company's website at <https://patriotwildlifecontrol.com/service/squirrel-removal/>. Hodges says that pest rodents can adapt to nearly any habitat making it impossible to remove rodents without skilled trapping as a means of rodent extermination in Germantown, TN. The company states that even a squirrel infestation can lead to massive damage to a home.

While squirrels are not aggressive and will typically not attack, they do cause destruction to homes and other structures if they are nesting in an attic. They can dig and steal plant bulbs, chew bark from ornamental trees and feed on birdfeeders, in addition to the damage that they can cause inside. Many Germantown Tennessee homeowners simply do not want squirrels in their yards due to the damage that they can cause. Inside, they can chew wiring, which could be dangerous to homes and their inhabitants. They will crush insulation as well as gnaw wooden support beams in the walls.

The company, which can be viewed at <https://batchgeo.com/map/Germantown-TN-Rat-Removal>, states that squirrels, in particular, become more of a problem as fall approaches and they begin looking for shelter for the upcoming winter months. They state that aside from causing physical damage to structures, these nuisance rodents can also be considered a health hazard because they are often infested with fleas and ticks and could carry certain diseases.

Hodges says that do it yourself methods of removing rats and squirrels is often not effective and that homeowners run the risk of being scratched or bitten if they are not aware of safe methods of exterminating these rodents. The company says that squirrels and rats are much like mice in that they can squeeze into small spaces so, without the correct rodent trapping tools, rodent removal in Germantown is not likely. Hodges says that in addition to removing those squirrels, Patriot Wildlife Control will identify the areas in which they are entering the home so that the entry point can be closed to ward off future infestations. They also provide removal of dead animals in the event that a rodent has died inside the home.

As a full-service wildlife removal company, Patriot Wildlife Control provides a number of services such as snake removal, raccoon removal, armadillo trapping and much more for customers in their home base of Collierville and Germantown, TN. The company states that they can handle any removal of wildlife along with attic restoration services and award-winning animal proofing & rodent exclusion with highly eye pleasing steel custom fit to homes to help prevent infestations of wildlife in the home. Those who are interested can learn more about the entire range of services that the company offers by visiting them on their official website. They state that now is the time to call for Germantown, TN rodent removal or to set up preventative measures to keep those squirrels and roof rats from entering the home in the first place before cooler weather arrives in Tennessee.

Those who need Patriot Wildlife Control To Germantown TN directions can visit their Google Maps page.

###

For more information about Patriot Wildlife Control, contact the company here: Patriot Wildlife Control Richard Hodges (901) 287-1932 info@patriotwildlifecontrol.com 401 E Valleywood Dr, Collierville, TN 38017

Patriot Wildlife Control

Patriot Wildlife Control is a company working out of Collierville and Germantown, TN, that specializes in trapping raccoons, roof rats, squirrels, and moles; along with repairing any damages cause by wildlife.

Website: <https://patriotwildlifecontrol.com/>

Email: info@patriotwildlifecontrol.com

Phone: (901) 287-1932

Powered by PressAdvantage.com