There are a number of factors that differentiate the paving contractor Riverside, CA residents can depend on from other providers. First of all, they have multiple years of experience and knowledge. As such, their team of professional pavers can provide the client with the largest return on investment. Second, the client is assured to receive the best quality service and care, from customer service to repairs, and installation. They don?t consider the job to be complete until the client is 100% satisfied. And third, they always do their best to provide the fastest turnaround in the paving industry. The length of time from quote to project completion is just a matter of days, not weeks.

Parking lot paving repair or installation is important because the parking lot is often the first thing that a customer or visitor of a company will see. If the paving is cracked, broken, or faded, the customer or visitor will likely not have a good impression of the company. Paving repair is essential because over time, the weather and aging can negatively affect the pavement. The pavement may be damaged by water, tree roots, and other environmental factors. They will either repave or replace damaged pavements. And even if there is no apparent damage to the pavement, it will start to show over time. Repaving or replacement of the asphalt surface will provide the pavement with a brand new look that is both reliable and safe.

And to better protect the pavement, they can provide sealcoating. The membrane that is used for sealcoating restores the shiny black appearance of the asphalt and protects it from getting damaged by oxidation and the elements. The sealcoat, which is made up of sand, mineral fillers, and oils, is designed to seep into the surface of the pavement to fill in small gaps and rejuvenate depleted asphalt.

Navarro Paving was established based on the belief that asphalt paving should not just look great, but should also add value to the home or property. This was the lesson learned by the owner and master paver from his experience in working with his father. He also realized that success requires desire, dedication, and determination and will not happen instantly. Based on these, he has built his company to focus not just on providing high-quality asphalt paving services, but also to cultivate long lasting relationships with clients.
