Vinnie Mac, a digital marketing agency based out of Glen Carbon, IL, is proud to announce the launch of their web design services for the St. Louis area. Representatives for the company say the service is aimed at local businesses in that area looking to boost their search engine rankings after Google's latest algorithm update in August.

"Google's last major update was a big boost for local businesses looking to get their rankings higher," says Sean McMeen of Vinnie Mac. "Businesses in St. Louis that are looking to have a unique online presence or just need an optimized update, our developers will work with you to create a complete website that will get traffic to you. Even if you're just now making the transition from a St. Louis brick and mortar to the web, we'll make the transition as smooth as possible."

Experts in the Search Engine Optimization (SEO) space say that Google's last major update, dubbed "Medic", impacted a number of sites in the health and wellness spaces, but they also noticed an impact on local search as well. McMeen says that now is the time for businesses looking to rank for local keywords to act now. "Businesses in St. Louis have the perfect opportunity to rank high right now," he says. "Google has placed a lot more focus on the content of local business pages as opposed to links, and we'll put together a website that is not only responsive, but also easy to use on the backend for you to edit and add the content you make so you can be the expert in your area."

McMeen adds that St. Louis businesses have the perfect opportunity to show off their expertise with Vinnie Mac's website design St Louis service. The client will work with Vinnie Mac's marketing specialists and design veterans in order to create the most unique, user-friendly site for their customers. The agency's team also works with the client to ensure that branding is to the client's standards and is covered in all areas of the St. Louis business's online presence, including social media, reputation management and mobile access. The agency also specializes in eCommerce websites, responsive design, and contact management.

Vinnie Mac's team has over 14 years of experience in the web design and digital marketing space, offering a number of different services. Along with website design and digital marketing, they offer digital strategy and consulting services that integrate business consulting, data design and user interfaces, brand strategy, and content strategy; branding and design services including logo branding, video development, print design, and product displays; and mobile app development, including launch and marketing, design and interface, and development.

The agency's experience has also made them experts in a number of specific industries, including gym and fitness businesses, dentistry, construction, law firms, restaurants and much more. The company has seen a number of positive reviews of their services. "We've been working with a diverse clientele for years," McMeen says. "Along the way, we've learned that clear communication with our clients is very important. We make the effort to walk you through the entire process from start to finish making sure your brand translates to real results."

Brandon H. said of Vinnie Mac's services in a 5-star review on Facebook, "As a new business owner of the sports world in 2017, I was referred by a past client of Vinnie Mac. This would be my very first website and hands down my best purchase for my company. No better feeling sending clients interested in my program to one of the best web designed sports page I have seen. I have access to my website and Vinnie Mac is available when needed to help walk me through my site. To hear and see people's positive reactions when they visit the page is just added confirmation I made the right choice. You walk into the office and sit down with their staff and you can tell they are passionate about their product, the staff is talented, I'm sold. I'm usually the one trying to cut out the middle man but Vinnie Mac was a no brainer when I saw what they done for their past clients. Those really wanting to see growth in their business, Vinnie Mac's knowledge on marketing will have business coming your way left and right."
