ProVetria Launches Dog Health YouTube Channel For Animal Lovers

November 10, 2015

November 10, 2015 -

ProVetria, a pet wellness company based out of Deerfield Beach, FL, has launched a YouTube channel on dog health. The channel will not just be providing interesting and unique videos representing dog health and products that promote it, but also a discussion section, and information on the company and its background in animal nutrition and care. The following description can be seen through the company's official website: "ProVetria is a family owned company originally based in Scandinavia. Our team is committed to support the health and well-being of your companion and sport animals throughout their lives. Our goal is to create high quality products based on specific research for the animals they are intended."

The company is best known for their NucleOtics probiotic supplement for canines. The supplement is designed to promote healthier digestion as it has been observed to regulate bowel movements and eliminate constipation, diarrhea, and other problems associated with an improperly balanced digestive tract. Pet owners interested in learning more about this product can do so through the videos on the new YouTube channel, or by checking out the company's social media account at https://www.facebook.com/ProVetria.

While the aim of the new video feed is certainly to draw in more customers who may not be aware of the benefits of probiotics, the company has also been candid in their hopes of educating pet owners in many of the other health and wellness related products and activities which could be helping their dogs. Just like humans require specific digestive aids for issues related to gut health, ProVetria says that dogs should be using certain products for better digestive health.

The new YouTube channel offers pet owners and animal lovers the chance to subscribe and receive updates on new videos as they are posted. This allows individuals to see new posts as they are made, rather than hearing about them later through social media or blog updates. Customers who subscribe to and enjoy the ProVetria channel are also encouraged to visit the company's online sales portal through Amazon. The said web page gives further data on probiotics for pets, as well as a breakdown of the NucleOtics supplement being sold by ProVetria.

###

For more information about ProVetria, contact the company here:ProVetriaMarcus Peterson+17543334562media@provetria.comSuite #8462,3422 SW 15 Street,Deerfield Beach, FL 33442

ProVetria

ProVetria is committed to support the health and well-being of your companion and sport animals by offering high quality nutrient based solutions, which help to prevent and treat injury or illness and help maintain their vitality and quality of life.

Website: http://provetria.com

Email: media@provetria.com

Phone: +17543334562

PROVETRIA™

Your Pet's Health Is Our Priority