

Toronto Furnace Repair Company Featured On Digital Journal

October 29, 2018

October 29, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Laird & Son Heating & Air Conditioning, a family owned and operated business in Toronto, Ontario, Canada, has announced that they have been featured on Digital Journal. The release posted on the Digital Journal website is about the furnace repair company recommending furnace maintenance for homes and buildings in the area before the winter season arrives.

Ron Potter, spokesperson for Laird & Son, says, "It is better to be prepared than to have the home exposed to winter temperatures with a defective furnace. This could result into higher energy bills. Remember that because of the much colder temperatures during winter, the heating system will have to work much harder than before. If there are any defects in the system, these could break down during the winter months, leaving the home without the required heating."

In the press release featured on Digital Journal, Laird & Son points out that a furnace usually lasts for 15 years. Preventative maintenance checks will ensure that the furnace will run efficiently and will likely reach its maximum life span. They recommend that maintenance checks be conducted during the fall season in order to ensure that the furnace can really do its job during the winter season.

The quality of the products and services provided by Laird & Son Heating & Air Conditioning has been attested to by previous customers who have left positive reviews in various places online. On Google alone, the company has received almost 150 reviews and has an overall rating of 4.5 out of 5 stars.

For example, John S. gave them five stars and said, "I like to thank Charlie who was our Air Conditioner Technician. He called us approx. 1/2 before arriving - helping us plan our day. On doing the diagnosis inspection (in our case our fan keeps turning on & off), he examined various components: the thermostat, the various switches in the A/C unit, and finally the pressure from the unit. He is very thorough in attempting to locate the problem. What makes Charlie so great is his constant description of the various steps he was doing - so we understand completely what was being done. He was courteous and patient and his explanation. Now our A/C is working wonderfully. Thanks for the exceptional service! The company deserves the Reader's Choice Award!"

Another customer, Sara S., also gave them 5 stars and said, "I arrived home from work at 4:30 on a steamy Friday before a long weekend to find our A/C not working. I called Laird & Son and left a message on the emergency service line fully expecting that I would hear back sometime over the weekend. I received a call within minutes and Mack, the service technician was on-site by 5:15. The problem was a complicated one and he took the time to work through each of the issues as they arose... He actually took the time to follow up 48 hours later with a phone call to make sure everything was still working properly due to the complexity of the problem. I will never use anyone but Laird & Son in the future for our furnace and A/C requirements. I know when I call them that they will respond promptly, assess the problem accurately and fix the situation at a reasonable price. Thanks Mack!"

Meanwhile, it could still be possible that for some reason, the furnace may break down during winter. It is for that reason that Laird & Son also offers emergency furnace repair and installation. The team of service representatives understand the importance of quick response in such situations and that is what they are committed to provide.

Aside from the repair or installation of furnaces, the company also provides services for air conditioning units, boilers, and water heaters. They also offer duct cleaning services to ensure that air quality in the home or office is excellent and that the air from the heaters or air conditioners will not cause people in the home or office to get sick.

Laird & Son Heating & Air Conditioning is family owned and operated and has been providing HVAC maintenance and repair services to the greater Toronto area for more than 70 years. Neil Laird serves as the company president and he points out that they are completely dedicated to providing quality customer service with their qualified and trained service representatives, incentives, and high quality products.
