WeeSprout, a business based in Memphis, TN, that focuses on creating mother and baby products has long been known for their popular reusable food pouch for babies, which holds 5 ounces. They have now released the same product in a 3.4 oz size, which is perfect for baby and toddler snacks. Because of its smaller size, the pouch meets the 100ml size limits for liquids that have to pass through airport security, making it a great travel companion as well.

"Our 5 oz reusable baby pouch proved to be really popular, but customers started to say they would like to have one that they could take with them while traveling," says Brandon Wells from WeeSprout. "We always listen to our customers and we agreed that a 3.4oz pouch would actually be more suitable and useful so we immediately set about making one."

The reusable baby food pouch, which come in packs of six, is very easy to fill and to clean thanks to the extra wide zipper opening. They do not have any corners that can trap food in them. Furthermore, they are fully dishwasher (top rack) and freezer safe. The WeeSprout pouches are made using a strong, eco-friendly material that enables them to be used again and again. They are completely phthalate, lead, PVC and BPA free. The material is also fully recyclable. As such, parents can save both money and natural resources.

The pouches are continuing to increase in popularity among parents. "Thumbs up," says Joan. "These pouches are awesome. My son is becoming very independent and while he is pretty good at feeding himself, sometimes not all the food makes it into his mouth. With the pouch, he eats/drinks every drop. They are easy to clean and are a very cheap alternative to the store bought varieties of non-reusable pouches."

Nature's Little Squeeze is quickly becoming the must have item for parents of weaning babies and toddlers. It also helps to encourage healthy eating, as they can contain pureed home cooked food, instead of processed, store bought baby food items. As such, WeeSprout hopes to positively influence the next generation as well.
