November 23, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

SAHE Products, a company based in Irving, Texas, has announced the launch of a new kitchen product. The company recently launched their new baking mat sheet onto the Amazon Europe marketplace. SAHE Products is a 100 percent family owned and operated small business that promotes premium kitchen and household products.

H. Misra, Owner and Director for the company says, "We offer a long list of household products from silicone baking mats to tongs with stands, wooden kitchen ladles, and much more. All of our products are designed to make your life easier and this newest product is no exception to that rule."

The company states that their new baking mat, which can be seen on the Amazon marketplace at <https://amzn.to/2QvFLcw>, is a great alternative to parchment paper and it perfect for virtually every baking need. They state that using the baking sheet as opposed to using parchment paper and other baking supplies helps to significantly cut down on the waste that one sees in their kitchen. The company representative says that this is just another product that they have launched that is designed to help bakers to go green in the kitchen.

The company says that bakers who want to avoid having to use cooking sprays and grease on baking pans will find the baking sheet to be very beneficial. They state that the mat is completely non-stick and is easy to clean. It is made from healthy BPA free materials that are certified by the FDA and the LFGB. The mat is stain and odor resistant and oven, dishwasher, microwave and freezer safe.

"Our customers know that they can trust us to turn out quality products," says Misra. "They trust us to give them the products that they need at prices that they want and with benefits that they aren't going to get anywhere else. This baking mat is easy and fun to use and it is perfect for baking anything from cookies and pizza to just about anything else. You can use it as a pre-baking mat too for rolling out cookies and such. And, it's a great way to go green in the kitchen."

The company says that the baking mat is guaranteed to never absorb odors and it contains non-toxic food grade silicone that is BPA free and approved by the FDA for use with food. The company states that the baking mat is a great idea for a holiday gift for those who love to bake and they state that their launch is just in time for the 2018 holiday shopping season. Those who are interested in learning more about the baking mat and its benefits can view it on the Amazon marketplace website.

SAHE Products is a family owned business that promotes kitchen and household products that are safer for families and for the environment. Their line of products are currently offered for sale on the Amazon marketplace website and include a number of items for the kitchen from water bottles and wooden kitchen utensils to bamboo cutting boards and more. The items are offered on the Amazon UK site along with various other products that are designed for home use.

SAHE Products says that they are dedicated to the environment and families. They offer only products that are friendly to the environment and that provide a benefit to their customers. Misra states that they only provide products that their customers will use and appreciate and that help them significantly in some way. He says that their Amazon listing pages have a number of positive testimonials from customers that have used and fully appreciate the quality of their products. Those who are interested in reading through some of the positive reviews from other customers can do so on any of the company's listing pages or on their official Amazon seller's page.

SAHE Products states that their dedication to the environment is strong and that they want to help families to do simple things that will help them to live a more environmentally friendly existence. Their BPA free baking mat and other products are designed to help with this quest.
