

AC Man Houston Announces Free Diagnostic Service

December 21, 2018

December 21, 2018 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

AC Man Houston, a heating, ventilation and air conditioning (HVAC) company in Houston, TX, is proud to announce that they now offer a 'Free Diagnostic with Repair' service on all services. The company goes above and beyond to cater to all clients and to ensure that the service is done on time and at the right time. They often offer specials on installations, services, maintenance, and more and always strive to be the best HVAC company in Houston.

Don from AC Man Houston says: "We are the top choice for AC services, repairs, installation, and maintenance in the Houston area. We know that you have many choices when it comes to selecting an HVAC contractor for your home or business. That's why we will go out of our way to make sure you are completely happy."

Offering free diagnostic with repairs ensures that people do not find their AC units breaking down unexpectedly. Many other HVAC companies will often only solve the problem that is most obvious, and not look at the potential causes of the problem. Hence, most people who require one repair on their AC system will soon realize that they need repair services for other parts of the system. In Houston, temperatures in summer are such that an AC is as necessary as a heating system in winter, which means people simply cannot afford to go without it. The services of an HVAC Technician in Houston, Texas are, therefore, necessary.

AC Man Houston has quickly set itself apart as the best AC repair Houston company around because they are incredibly knowledgeable, while also being completely transparent about how they work. Indeed, people receive a full quotation on how much a certain job will cost, thereby avoiding any nasty surprises. Furthermore, the company only employs the most highly trained technicians and ensures that their knowledge about the different HVAC systems is always fully up to date. This is how they can offer their free diagnostic with repairs service on all the different systems available.

In fact, AC Man Houston is one of the only contractors in the area that are fully certified. Don continues: "You can depend on us for a broad selection of air conditioning services with the exception of window units. We are one of the few companies that have the distinction of being certified. We strive to be one of the best."

Scientists have recently listed indoor air pollution as one of the five biggest environmental dangers. To combat this, it is vital that HVAC systems are fully operational. To ensure this, AC Man Houston complies with the American Standard, which guarantees that they focus on energy efficient air conditioning at all times. They offer their installation, service, maintenance, and repair on industrial, commercial, and residential properties as well.

Those who have used their services have had nothing but praise for the HVAC Houston company. Willy W., for instance, says on the company's Google Maps page: "The A/C man (Don) came over the Friday of memorial weekend (which we thought we were going to suffer through the long weekend) and did an excellent job. Came in, knew the systems and circuits and hardware and fix our problem. Really really reasonable price. Will definitely refer him to family and friends and for any future maintenance and service."

With summer here, AC Man Houston offers a full service on local HVAC systems to ensure that they are fully functional. They also make sure that indoor air quality is not negatively affected by such things as chemical odors, cigarette smoke, mold, pet dander, cooking, or other issues. In so doing, they also aim to provide help for those people who suffer from allergies, colds, respiratory problems, and more.

Don continues: "We perform a heat gain, heat loss analysis on each house to determine the proper size of the system that needs to be installed. It should be noted that with an HVAC system, bigger is not always better. If a complete analysis hasn't been done by other companies (not square footage only), then all they are providing you is a 'guesstimate.' And just think, if they're guessing about equipment size, it is also likely that they also conduct various kinds of guesses when they go through the installation process."

Overall, the HVAC Houston company aims to ensure that people always feel comfortable in their home or office, whether they require heating during winter or cooling during summer. They offer full thorough cleaning services to ensure that all HVAC systems they work with remain in top condition regardless of the season. People are encouraged to contact the company as soon as possible for further information and to ensure their HVAC system is fully operational, clean, and safe to use.
