The party gift bags offered by LiveEco on the Amazon marketplace have garnered the company more than 200 positive reviews. LiveEco provides products that are designed to be environmentally friendly, cost friendly and high quality. The company states that their numerous five star reviews show that they have reached these goals.

Christina Abels, a representative for the company says, "We are always pleased to receive a glowing review from our customers. The more than 200 current reviews, with more coming in every day, shows that we are doing what we have set out to do, which is to provide our customers with quality products that they love and that will help them in their own quest to be more environmentally friendly."

Abels states that the bags have been well-received since their launch some time ago. She states that customers rave about the design and the company's guarantee that the bags are durable and will not rip.

"You just don't find a party bag that is rip-proof," says one customer. Another goes on to add that the bags, "Have the most adorable designs. It's a great thing to give my kids these fun bags knowing that they are safe for them and safe for the environment.?

The emoji designed gift bags are used by parents as treat bags at parties and as actual gift bags, according to some reviews. The bags measure 9 inches wide by 12 inches long and come in packs of 40. Abels says that the size of the package along has gotten the company a number of positive reviews from parents who are planning parties and state that they can purchase just one package of these emoji bags as opposed to several packages of lesser quality bags to have enough gift bags on hand for party guests.

The 40 bags are divided into four different emoji designs. Abels states that the company spent some time researching the most popularly used emojis through text, Snapchat and various social media sites in order to choose their designs. Each package of 40 bags includes 10 each of the chosen designs, which range from a laughing out loud emoji to a heart eyes, kissing face and crazy face emoji.

The bags are eco-friendly due to their makeup of up to 20 percent of recycled materials. Abels says that this alone is one reason that parents have chosen these bags for their parties. She states that being environmentally friendly is something that many parents strive for these days and these bags help them to stick with their green lives while still providing a fun party bag for their children's birthday parties or other celebrations.

Along with the use of recycled materials to make their party emoji bags, Abels says that the company also works with a shipping company that allows them to provide carbon-neutral shipping, which helps them to lower their carbon footprint and help parents to do the same.

The company states that they are always pleased to hear from their customers and that those who are interested should visit their party bag page on the Amazon website to read through the number of reviews that they have recently received. Their quality of product, readily available shipping and general customer service have earned LiveEco the coveted Amazon's Choice for their products. Abels says that this honor badge has also helped them to reach a reputation of being a manufacturer of high quality products and of caring for their customers.

Parents, teachers and others currently use the bags as party favor bags and some customers state that they use the bags as gift bags due to their size. Abels says that the bags are a bit larger than traditional party favor bags, another fact that has led to their numerous positive reviews over the past few months. Those interested can learn more by visiting LiveEco on their Amazon seller's page to see this and other products that they currently have available.
