Mesa, Arizona - July 10, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -
Dry Star Restoration, a team of emergency water damage contractors in Phoenix, AZ, would like to reach out to local residents who may have been affected by water damage. The company provides services that can help reverse some of the damage done by flooding, leaks and other common sources of water damage.

Since the company first opened its doors in 2012, Dry Star Restoration has been hard at work helping homeowners rescue their valuable possessions and property from unforeseen disasters. Whether caused by natural events, such as storms, or more ?mundane? occurrences, such as burst pipes, water damage can wreak havoc, and only an experienced contractor can prevent further loss while preparing a property for remediation. In Phoenix, that contractor is Dry Star Restoration, considered by many to be a notable leader in the field.

The company?s certified experts are greatly skilled and experienced when it comes to restoration and are in a unique position that allows them to deal with any commercial and residential property restoration. From the most minor damage caused by a leak to the most extensive flood damage, Dry Star is always there to handle the restoration of a client?s property from beginning to end.

?As a top-rated Phoenix water damage restoration company, Dry Star is committed to uphold a standard of integrity, bound by fairness, honesty and personal responsibility,? says the company. ?What sets us apart from the competition is the quality of service we bring to our customers. We also have a high level of knowledge about our trade combined with our ability that makes us true professionals. Above all else, we care about our customers and make their needs and concerns the focus of everything we do.?

There are a number of factors that set Dry Star apart from its peers. The use of highly specialized, state-of-the-art equipment is one of the reasons why Dry Star stands out among water damage restoration contractors in Phoenix. They have moisture detection tools which allow them to see exactly how far the water has migrated, for instance, and these tools are also utilized by highly trained specialists who make it a point to pinpoint and attend to any areas that may have been affected.

When Dry Star deals with water damage, a client can be sure that any structural damage will be repaired and any structures that cannot be repaired will be replaced in an appropriate manner. The company takes great care to ensure that whatever damage has been done to the house is contained ? and special techniques are used to avoid further warping, swelling, delaminating and buckling.

Speed is one of the biggest concerns when dealing with water damage. If left unattended for too long, water damage not only spreads but also begins causing other issues. Mold, odor and so on can become very serious issues if water damage is not dealt with. Dry Star?s water damage restoration specialists attend to each and every job promptly to ensure the damage does not spread and that no health issues arise among the property?s residents.

In addition to water damage restoration, Dry Star offers emergency asbestos removal in Phoenix. Asbestos was once a popular material in construction. It was considered a great way to prevent fires, and this is why it can still be found in schools, ships, heat ducts and other areas. While effective in this regard, asbestos has unfortunately been found to cause lung problems in those exposed to it, and it has since fallen out of use. Asbestos can still be found in some homes and other spaces, however, and once discovered it is important to get rid of it as soon as possible.

Dry Star states, ?The presence of asbestos fibers can be difficult to discern, except by the assessment of a professional trained in the identification and safe removal of the particles. In some instances, removal of the product poses more of a risk than leaving it in place. Due to the high risk of exposure to the tiny floating particles, abatement of the material here should only be done by certified professional asbestos removal services in Phoenix.?
