One of their popular items is the Scandinavian bar stool, which is made from solid Ash timber and has a design that is appropriate for both modern and period homes. Made from natural timber, this stool is typically used in an interior with timber flooring or a timber element. The use of natural timber means that each wood stool is unique, varying in its woodgrains, knots, surface markings, and colour variations. The colour tones for each stool will be different from each piece of wood stool and will darken as the timber ages.
