

For Sale Off Market: New Website Launched

April 16, 2019

April 16, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

For Sale Off Market recently launched a new online marketplace where home buyers, real estate agents, and investors can find discounted properties at 30-50% off of their retail value.

"We offer a comprehensive list of properties to those who are looking for profitable fix-and-flip and real estate rental opportunities," says Evan Roberts from For Sale Off Market. He explains that their proprietary marketing system enables them to find discounted properties such as bank owned foreclosures, investment-grade estates for sale, handyman deals, fixer-uppers, distressed properties, and more.

Roberts states that they are able to offer up to a 50% discount on their listings because their proprietary system allows them to directly get in touch with homeowners who need to sell their properties urgently. "Most of them are facing financial difficulties or foreclosures and we help them out by buying their homes quickly. Homeowners in such situations typically give us huge discounts which we also pass on to our customers," he said. In addition, he points out that For Sale Off Market varies greatly from Multiple Listing Service (MLS) websites because the listed properties on such online platforms are published by real estate agents who put a huge markup on the prices.

Furthermore, he states that For Sale Off Market does not charge homeowners any fees, and they assure buyers that they are really getting a great deal from their purchase. "When you buy a property from us, we only add on our property acquisition cost, which is our profit for finding and negotiating the deal. We don't charge any hidden fees unlike other similar service providers," he says. More information about the company can be gleaned from their Press Advantage page at <https://www.pressadvantage.com/organization/for-sale-off-market>.

Meanwhile, Roberts also explains that they typically work with people who pay in cash, but they can also work with buyers who are already pre-approved by the bank as long as they can close the deal immediately. He also states that the company can help connect potential buyers to a number of recommended and trusted lenders should they need additional financing to purchase a property that is listed on their website. "Our aim is to help prospective buyers find the best property in the market that will best suit their budget. Whether you are an investor who is looking to diversify your portfolio or a rehabber seeking great deals for bigger profit margins, our online marketplace is a great place to start finding your next project or property investment," he said.

Roberts goes on to explain that For Sale Off Market is always on the lookout for new investment properties, and they update their online listing at least 2-3 times a week. "Over the years, we have refined our business process, marketing, and professional network, letting us find the best real estate deals before they even hit the MLS market. We are a property wholesaler who directly connects homeowners to potential buyers for easier and faster transactions," he said.

Those looking for property investments may reach out to For Sale Off Market by calling their office hotline. Alternatively, interested parties may head over to their website to send an email inquiry regarding the properties and services that they currently offer. "We operate on a first come first serve basis so make sure to contact us as soon as possible. Once you connect with us and you decide to purchase the property, we'll require an earnest deposit to secure your offer and exclusively reserve the said property under your name. Should you have any questions and clarifications, our property consultants will be more than happy to assist and advise you so you will feel 100% confident and comfortable in your decisions," affirms Roberts.

For Sale Off Market regularly publishes useful articles on their blog that can help homeowners improve their marketing efforts, as well as guide buyers when it comes to finding the best property investments in the market. Furthermore, Roberts encourages those searching for a new home to join the company's Preferred Buyers list so they can be the first ones to get notified as soon as a new listing is added to the website. Roberts is also personally available should anyone wish to get in touch to learn more about the company and its process.
