Chain link fences are one of the most popular choices not just for residential properties but also for commercial and industrial properties. This is because they offer the right balance of durability, affordability, aesthetic appearance, and low maintenance needs. Constructed from steel posts and mesh links that have been galvanized with zinc coating for protection against rust, chain link fences are protected from corrosion and the weather. With its neat lines and uniformity, the chain link fence also provides an attractive look for the property. It is also possible to choose from a range of colors, such as green, black, silver, or brown, to make the home?s aesthetic. It is also possible to choose from a variety of mesh sizes.

Meanwhile, ornamental iron fences can provide that elegant and timeless appearance that homeowners are looking for, which is why they are quite common in Chicago. At Windy City Fence Company, they can provide a variety of ornamental iron fence styles to choose from, including contemporary and classic designs. Ornamental fences don?t require staining or painting and have low maintenance requirements. These fences can last for up to 50 years without requiring replacement.

Iron railings can also be provided by Windy City Fence Company. Iron fences are durable and can withstand heavy rains and strong winds. They are also relatively inexpensive to install when compared to other fences.

They can also offer vinyl fencing, which is attractive, low maintenance, and cost-effective. The spokesperson says, ?We can customize the vinyl fence to match the style and layout of your property, ensuring that it fits perfectly and provides maximum protection and privacy.
