November 20, 2023 -
Medsource USA, which is based in Bloomington, IL, is offering various kinds of quality medical tables made from high-grade materials. They provide different types of medical tables, such as: bariatric tables, Hi-Lo tables, mat tables, pediatric tables, traction tables, tilt tables, wood and metal tables, and table accessories.

Bariatric tables are designed to be capable of supporting bigger patients, ensuring their comfort, safety, and dignity during medical procedures and consultations. Craig Lesner from Medsource USA, says, ?By investing in high-quality bariatric tables from MedSource USA, you can provide exceptional care for every patient, regardless of their size. These bariatric tables are a testament to our commitment to providing high-quality medical equipment that caters to all patients. By offering superior comfort, safety, and durability, our tables are an ideal choice for any healthcare practice.?

The bariatric tables they offer have various features. These include: improved weight capacity, adjustable heights, reinforced construction, and wide surface area. Their bariatric tables have a bigger weight capacity, accommodating patients of bigger sizes comfortably and safely. These tables are provided with hydraulic and electric height adjustments to allow easy patient access and ergonomic positioning. These are constructed using high quality materials to ensure stability and durability. They have a wider surface area for better patient comfort during treatments and examinations. One example is the Armedica AM-368 Bariatric

Treatment Table with footswitch contol and privoting joint, and heavy duty vinyl surface with Permablok 3® for bacterial protection.

They also provide high quality mat tables, which are also known as therapy tables or treatment tables. These tables are designed to provide the needs of healthcare providers who need a durable, stable, and comfortable surface for conducting patient examinations and treatments. The key advantages of these mat tables include: premium quality, expert support, competitive pricing, fast shipping, and guaranteed satisfaction.

They also offer high quality traction tables that have been engineered for optimum healthcare practitioner ease and patient comfort for chiropractic and physical therapy practices. They can facilitate treatment for various conditions like sciatica, herniated discs, and degenerative joint diseases, offering patients with much-needed relief. Examples of traction tables available through MedSource USA are the: Armedica AM-100 Treatment Table, Armedica AM-150 Treatment Table, Armedica AM-200 Treatment Table, and more.

Meanwhile, their tilt tables are specifically designed to help in the rehabilitation of patients, offering a variety of benefits, such as improved muscle tone, circulation, and balance. These tilt tables are provides with advanced features, including smooth electric tilting mechanisms and secure patient strapping, to ensure patient safety and comfort. They?re ideal for a range of medical settings, from hospitals to physical therapy clinics.

They also offer high quality wood and metal medical tables that provide a combination of modern functionality and traditional aesthetics. The wood tables are made from premium quality and durable wood to provide longevity and a warm, inviting ambiance for patients. On the other hand, the metal tables are constructed using industry-grade stainless steel to offer easy maintenance and lost-lasting performance. Both wood and metal medical tables are available in a wide range of configurations and sizes, allowing them to be tailor-fitted to the healthcare provider?s specific needs.

Also from MedSource USA are various medical table accessories. These range from table paper and stirrups to safety straps and armboards. Craig Lesner says, ?Each product is crafted with the same commitment to quality and durability as our renowned medical tables. Our accessories not only ensure patient comfort and safety but also contribute to the longevity and versatility of your medical tables. With MedSource USA, you can rest assured you?re investing in reliable, top-tier medical table accessories that will stand the test of time, all while enhancing your patients? healthcare experience. Explore our range today to find the perfect additions to your healthcare facility.?
