December 27, 2023 -
Toronto real estate agent Mats Moy is showcasing a range of properties in his portfolio that will interest homebuyers aiming to call the city home.

Mats Moy has been heavily involved in real estate for the last four years, mainly as an investor. Now, with his years of experience learning about the ins and outs of the market, he is taking his skills to the next level and helping everyday Canadians find the perfect home to move in and start a new life in the country?s most diverse, promising, and exciting cities and suburbs. The real estate agent urges readers looking to buy, sell, invest, or relocate to the Greater Toronto Area to visit his website to check out the myriad properties that have been listed to find something that matches their needs and budget.

Representing eXp Realty, Mats Moy?s website currently showcases over 12,500 house listings, over 260 multi-family listings, and over 9000 condos. The website even features an interactive map where visitors can narrow down their house search based on the region in and around Toronto where they are looking to buy. Home searches can be further filtered based on the lowest and highest price, city, area, postal code, address, number of bedrooms, number of bathrooms, home type, and property styles.

?There are tons of options for you to get started,? says Toronto real estate agent Mats Moy. ?Casting a wide net is the first step to finding the property of your dreams, especially in today?s property market where prices have been steadily rising for over ten years. If you see something you like, just give me a call and I can help you schedule a showing. Soon, you can start planning to move in and enjoy the perks of homeownership in Toronto and nearby areas such as Brampton, Burlington, Caledon, Georgetown, Milton, Mississauga, and Oakville.?

The website features a Just Listed section that details properties that have been recently listed with Mats Moy and eXp Realty. For example, Mats invites visitors to take a look at a pristine condominium located in the heart of downtown Toronto. A completely new unit by Menkes Development, it features 657 sq. feet of interior space and a 116 sq. feet balcony. The open-concept (1 + 1) condo has a den that can be used as a second bedroom. With a spacious living area and unobstructed city view, the condo is surrounded by Sugar Beach, Farm Boy, Loblaws, and LCBO. As a part of the city?s largest waterfront communities, the condo offers abundant city exposure and various amenities.

For families, the website recently listed a home in Springwater that is nestled in the serene haven of Wasaga Pines Cottage and Resort Park. The 2-bed 1-bath Huronridge mobile home offers a bright open-concept eat-in kitchen that flows into a spacious dining/living room area. It also boasts a versatile shed presently utilized as a workshop but offering the perfect potential to be converted into a guest bunkie. Embodying the essence of cottage living, it offers many amenities to enjoy such as 2 outdoor heated pools, a sports park with volleyball, basketball & mini putt, along with a recreation hall & dog park.

Mats Moy also highlights several properties that have recently experienced a reduction in their prices. One of the top picks is a condominium in Milton that offers a generous 879 sq. feet with a functional open-concept layout. Featuring a primary room and a second bedroom equipped with a convenient 4-piece ensuite, the space ensures comfort and privacy. Its modern building amenities include a fitness center with a complete yoga studio, rooftop deck/garden, party/meeting room, and visitor parking.

?The Brampton real estate market is flourishing,? says Mats. ?It might be the right time for you to jump in and lock in a home depending on where you are in your life. When you are ready to pull the trigger, reach out to me to get yourself a partner that looks out for your best interests and supports you in every way possible.?
