Calgary Counter Pro, a business based in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, has announced openings all summer for new quartz counter tops Calgary property owners are looking for. The quartz countertops offers the benefit of a stylish countertop that can last for a long time. This is because quartz is a beautiful material and at the same time has durability. Quartz countertops can be used in the kitchen, bar room, bathroom, and other places in the home that require a washbasin.

Martin Brauser, spokesperson for Calgary Counter Pro, says, "Calgary kitchen countertops simplify your kitchen tasks, protect your cabinets, enhance the interior aesthetics, and support your everyday errands. Since it is a multipurpose fixture, you have to take extra care in selecting the material, colour, design and pattern, dimension, and other properties."

Martin Brauser points out that property owners should know that there are two kinds of quartz available on the market. These are the natural stone quartzite and engineered quartz. Natural stone quartzite is less expensive than engineered quartz. Engineered quartz is available in different sizes and shapes as well as in every colour. The quartz countertop made from engineered quartz is available in a wide range of quality, from the low quality to the high quality, ranging in price from $50 per square foot for the cheapest low quality quartz countertop to more than $100 for the most expensive high quality quartz countertop. Calgary Counter Pro offers top choice countertops made from engineered quartz for property owners in Calgary and surrounding areas.

Engineered quartz is available in various grades considering their style and other qualities. The four grades for the quartz countertop are: clearance, standard, premium, and designer. Standard grade quartz countertops have a plain design and are usually available in earth tones. They are usually priced from $50 to $75 per square foot. At the other end of the spectrum are the premium and designer quartz countertops that range in price from $100 to $200 per square foot. Martin Brauser explains that the brand name and manufacturer are other important factors that might add to or reduce the cost of quartz countertops.

Meanwhile, it should be noted that the price of many quartz countertops includes the cost of installation. But such is not always the case. Thus, property owners shopping for these countertops should remember to always ask whether the price being quoted includes the installation fee. Usually, the installation cost of a quartz countertop will depend on a number of factors. These include leveling, addition of support, joining seams, fabrication, and edge treatments.

Professional installers usually level the countertop before installing it in order to eliminate any chances of racking and to avoid countertop gaps. The cabinets will usually have to be raised or lowered. Many professionals will sand or cut down cabinets to be able to place the countertops properly, thus adding to the installation cost.

And for those situations where there are no cabinets, the installers will have to put in some support. This is usually done by fixing a piece of wood to the wall or nearest cabinet. More supports may be added to ensure that the countertop is strong enough, thus adding to the installation cost.

There will also be a need to join the seams properly, and then the installers may need to fabricate the edges. And finally, edge treatments will be needed to add character and cohesive design to the countertops.
