Chem-Dry of Park City has announced that they are now offering Park City pet odor removal to customers. The company states that they have a revolutionary system for removing pet stains and odors from carpeting, rugs and furniture.

Daryl Olsen, a representative for the company says, "Pets are great, until they have an accident that stains a favorite chair or rug. Those pet odors and stains can be really hard to remove with store bought over the counter cleaners and consumer grade shampoos. When it comes to completely removing pet stains and odors, a professional cleaning is typically needed."

Olsen says that pet odors can sink into carpeting and soak the mat underneath the carpet, which makes them virtually impossible to remove with standard equipment. He adds that in order to thoroughly remove the odors, professional cleaning systems are needed.

"Homeowners are not likely to have anything in their possession that is going to penetrate all the way to the carpet mat that is underneath the carpeting," Olsen says. "And without removing the urine from this mat, the smell will remain. Anytime the home gets a bit warm, that odor is going to come through."

Olsen says that in severe cases, homeowners have replaced their carpeting because they cannot remove the stains or odors. He adds that this is not necessary and that Chem-Dry has a system that will bring those odors and stains to the surface so that they can be removed.

Chem-Dry uses a system that incorporates heated and carbonated water. They do not use chemicals, bleaches or detergents, so their system is safer for carpets and for pets. Since the system uses about 80 percent less water than traditional carpet cleaners, carpets, rugs and furniture dry much more quickly. In most cases, Olsen says that the surface can be completely dried in about an hour or so.

Because of their revolutionary cleaning system, Chem-Dry can effectively remove urine and other pet stains and odors completely so those odors will not return even if the home is overheated. Olsen states that the entire process takes no longer than a traditional steam cleaning but offers many more benefits over other methods of deep cleaning.

"For one, homeowners actually get a deep clean," says Olsen. "We've seen a lot of homeowners who are worried about having to throw out a favorite chair or replace their carpeting because their pets had multiple accidents. With this system, those surfaces can be cleaned thoroughly so there is no need for replacing anything."

Olsen adds that with the holidays quickly approaching, now is the time for pet owners to schedule their cleaning, particularly if they have family that will be visiting over the holidays. He says that with winter approaching, it is a good time to remove pet odors so that they do not get out of hand once the heat comes on. A heated home will often show odors more heavily than one that is air conditioned and Olsen says that winters in Utah can get pretty cold, so heat is a must in any home.

Olsen adds that those who are planning to have their carpets, rugs or furniture cleaned for the holidays should consider scheduling their appointment quickly because these spaces typically fill up fast. He states that many homeowners want fresh and clean carpets and upholstery for the holidays and says that anyone who has pets will want to schedule earlier so that they can get those odors and stains removed before the holidays, and their holiday guests, begin to arrive.

Those who are interested can learn more about the company's cleaning system by visiting them on their official website. The website offers more information on their blog about all of their cleaning services, as well as an online contact form for those who wish to schedule a cleaning and direct contact information for those who prefer to schedule their appointment over the phone or through email.
