August 12, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Phoenix AC & Heating Experts, an Arizona based AC installation and repair company, is pleased to offer a new special for their customers, who will be able to get 10% off new AC unit purchases and save an average of $500-900. With their affordable AC installation services and the reduced cost of new AC units, Phoenix AC & Heating is currently one of the best companies to turn to for reliable, affordable AC unit installation services.

AC units from Phoenix AC & Heating are sourced only from trusted suppliers, allowing customers to be sure they are getting only the best when they purchase a unit from the company. On top of the high quality of their products, Phoenix AC & Heating strives to keep their prices lower than any of their competitors. As the company says, "Getting a unit from us and having us install it will entitle you to a special pricing scheme." Their current special is just one among many deals the company is known to offer their customers.

"Many say they are the best, but do not provide the level of service or pricing you need. We can help you," says the company. "For installation of a new unit on your property, let us inform you that we have dealt with different makes and models in the past. So whatever you have there, we are ready to install. In addition, we are a company that goes beyond average expectations. We'll help you out with how you can save energy and spare some more for your bank account. We also spend time with our customers to help them browse through our catalogue to find the best AC unit to install or to replace their existing one.?

Phoenix AC and Heating Experts has developed a reliable installation process and used it to rapidly get AC units up and running all across Arizona, efficiently and at low cost. The company places great emphasis on keeping their customers informed from the first to the last step of the entire installation process, allowing for a greater degree of transparency and openness. Assuming the procedure goes smoothly, it is possible for one to have a fully functional AC unit within 24 hours of the call for service being made.

Having served the local community for nearly 10 years, the company treats each customer like part of the family by offering them only the best products and services. As a full service air conditioning, heating, and refrigeration company for residential and commercial customers, Phoenix AC & Heating Experts takes pride in offering some of the best services in this class in Arizona. They say, "Our goal is to deliver high quality products and services at the most competitive prices to our customers. Our staff is professional, friendly, and knowledgeable when it comes to refrigeration, air conditioning, and heating for your home or business."

With the extreme weather in Arizona, it is important for every home to have the best AC technology available, and Phoenix AC & Heating has set out to ensure that every homeowner in Arizona gets it at the most affordable rates. The weather can also seriously damage AC systems, and it is recommended that one have their AC units examined regularly to ensure they keep running efficiently. To this end, the company offers a special at the beginning of the summer for residential air conditioning customers?and these checkups often result in a problem being found before it has the chance to evolve into a major issue.

For affordable AC units, AC unit installation services, and checkups, contact Phoenix AC & Heating Experts. The special they are currently running will ensure that anyone looking for a high quality AC unit and affordable installation will get exactly what they are looking for.
