GreenMountain GreenWalls has announced an exciting new service, introducing its Preserved Moss Wall Art installations. Based in Vermont, GreenMountain GreenWalls specializes in living plant walls and preserved moss art, aiming to transform both residential and commercial spaces with creative and sustainable solutions.

The addition of Preserved Moss Wall Art expands the company's services, which already include Living Plant Walls, Interior Landscaping, and Flexible Maintenance. With these preserved moss pieces, those interested can choose from full moss walls, framed art, and detailed moss sculptures. This eco-friendly option is maintenance-free, requiring no watering, sunlight, or pruning. Plus, it helps absorb sound, making it a practical choice for improving indoor spaces.

Each piece is carefully made from real moss that's been treated to keep its natural look and feel for years. GreenMountain GreenWalls promises that these installations can last for 10-15 years under normal indoor conditions, making them a lasting solution for any space.

Andrew Lawrence, a representative of GreenMountain GreenWalls, said, "Our preserved moss wall art installations are a step towards making nature an integral part of indoor spaces. This service aligns with our mission to create green sanctuaries that not only beautify but also offer practical benefits like sound absorption. We're excited to see these moss installations find their place in homes and offices across Vermont."

Along with preserved moss art, GreenMountain GreenWalls offers other services like Living Plant Walls. These are available for both indoor and outdoor settings and can range from small 2x3 ft installations to large projects up to 2,000 sq ft. This wide range means that customers of different budgets and spaces can enjoy the aesthetic and ecological benefits of green walls.

The company also provides Interior Landscaping services, which include a variety of planters, potted plants, and containers designed to bring life and vibrancy to any setting. These custom solutions cater to each client's specific needs, making it easy to incorporate plants into any design.

GreenMountain GreenWalls supports their installations with Flexible Maintenance options. They offer weekly, biweekly, and monthly services to keep plants healthy and looking their best. For larger green wall installations, they have integrated irrigation systems and offer regular grooming and fertilizing to ensure the plants stay vibrant and lively.

Ashley from Highline Design Studio shared her positive experience with GreenMountain GreenWalls: "We recently worked with GreenMountain GreenWalls on two large projects, one residential and one commercial. Brady and his team were amazing! They went the extra mile to help us template the perfect shape for a complicated curved wall with an organic-shaped moss feature that integrated with wood. It turned out better than anticipated. The communication, organization, and trust can't be beat. We are looking forward to working with them soon."

This testimonial is just one of many that highlight the company's dedication to customer satisfaction and quality work. GreenMountain GreenWalls is the only business offering living plant wall services in Northern and Central Vermont. They work with almost any budget and provide free consultations to help clients find the best possible solutions for their needs.

Besides their website, GreenMountain GreenWalls stays active on Instagram, where they showcase their latest projects and engage with the community. This platform helps clients and potential customers see the unique beauty and versatility of the company's installations.

GreenMountain GreenWalls continues to bring together nature and design, offering innovative and sustainable solutions. Their preserved moss wall art installations, in particular, showcase the company's commitment to creativity, sustainability, and customer satisfaction.
