Spring Hill, TN sauce maker Zombie Cajun proudly sponsors the Team Zombie Cajun Hot Sauce softball team and they are happy to announce that the team went 10-0, allowing them to win both the regular season and the tournament. As a result, they are now the champions of the Spring Hill, TN Lions Club 10 to 12 year old softball league. The company is encouraging everyone to purchase the hot sauce collection, as part of that money is used to further sponsor the team to get ready for the next season.

Ricky Hooter from Zombie Cajun says, "My son wanted to play softball and the team he joined was in need of sponsorship. As the owner of Zombie Cajun, I felt it was a great opportunity to support my son as well as physical activity for young people. Naturally, it is also an opportunity to tell the world about our fantastic hot sauce gift set."

The Spring Hill Lions Club also has some great values. All concession stand funds, for instance, stay within the community of Spring Hill. This allows high school seniors to access scholarships, it ensures daycare eye-screenings are provided for children between 6 months and 5 years, helps to fund eye glasses for those with low incomes, provide community resources for non-profit groups, and give assistance to needy families.

The Zombie Cajun hot sauce collection, meanwhile, has been very well-received by shoppers, team mates and community members alike. "Got these for my boyfriend for Christmas," says Anne. "He loves them! He puts them on everything, there hasn't been a single meal where he didn't bring all 4 bottles to the table with him." The pack includes four different bottles with different strengths. The flavors are garlic, jalapeno, habanero and cayenne pepper, with each bottle having an interesting name.

The Antidote is the strongest of all, and only the most daring have tried this one. Whether or not the young players on the team have also had a dab of this particular sauce remains to be seen. However, they do encourage everybody to try the sauce so that they can continue to be sponsored and do well next season.
