

Atlanta Music School Hosts Open House

October 25, 2019

Duluth, Georgia - October 25, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Duluth, Georgia based music school Atlanta Institute of Music and Media (AIMM) is pleased to announce that they are hosting an Open House. The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media is a college located in Georgia that offers majors in music and media, including but not limited to Music Technology, Music Performance, and Recording Arts Technician.

The Open House will be held on Saturday, November 9th at 12 PM. The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media's Open House events are completely free to all to wish to attend; however, the school asks that interested students RSVP so the necessary preparations can be made. Open Houses at the institute always include free sample classes, live performances, and a tour of the campus.

Nite Driscoll, the President of the Atlanta Institute of Music and Media, says, "The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media's Open House is an exciting opportunity for any student looking to get an excellent education in music. This is a chance for you to learn what the Atlanta Institute can do for you and, on top of that, to get a firsthand look at the life you will enjoy with us. We hope to see you at the Open House. Just make sure that you RSVP for free today!?"

At the AIMM Open House, students can learn more about the variety of programs offered by the school and the admissions process. They will have a chance to speak with the AIMM faculty, instructors, as well as current students. The Open House will also include a full tour of the campus along with sample classes taught by AIMM instructors. Attendees will be able to enjoy performances by top AIMM graduates as well.

For over 20 years, the Atlanta Institute of Music and Media has been a staple of music and media education. According to their mission statement, the institute seeks to provide non-beginning instrument students and recording arts students with the instructional environment necessary to develop their musical talents and acquire the skills demanded of professionals in today's music industry. To achieve their goal, they are offering a wide variety of programs.

A glance at the school's reviews by former students shows a record of excellence. On Facebook, the school has a rating of 4.6/5. Dayne Doucette says in his review, "The time spent at AIMM has been invaluable to me. The care taken by the instructors to ensure each student's grasp of the concepts taught has left me well equipped to face the realities of the music industry. I would highly recommend any musician or engineer at any level to consider this institute!"

On Niche, the school is rated 4/5 stars. A five star review from an anonymous freshman reads, "About a year ago, I started doing some soul-searching, wondering what I want to do with my life. I was 23 at the time, had no kids, was single, had my own apartment and car, but I wasn't happy because I was working a job I disliked and feeling I was just living to pay bills. I knew ever since I was 11 years old that I loved writing poetry, rhymes, and raps. So, I figured I would do something in music. I started looking at the different fields I can do and came across audio engineering and audio post production. I thought those were the dream jobs I have been looking for. So then I started searching for colleges near me that have the program but none were of my liking. Then I came across the Atlantic Institute of music and media, where I've found my match! Down to the degree that they offer internships and jobs in overall experience and the location of the school, this is my #1 choice, and I'm excited to see what the future holds!"

"The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media has proven that it is an excellent choice for anyone in the Atlanta area wanting to get into a career in music and media," says Driscoll. "If you are looking to have a career in entertainment, make the right decision and choose the best music school for you."
