Airmont, New York based Commercial Hardware supplier HomebuildersHardware.com is pleased to announce that they have "in stock" - ready to ship Extra Heavy Duty (ANSI Grade 1) Commercial Door Closers in Polished Brass and Polished Chrome finish, along with new anti-corrosion covers - made by Lawrence Hardware.

Emily Scott, a representative for HomebuildersHardware.com, says, "The heavy duty commercial door closers we sell are the kind that are used by many businesses, malls, hospitals, schools, offices, luxury hotels and clubs, condos, and other similar establishments. Sure, it is a simple door closer that keeps a door from slamming shut or being opened too quickly, but the quality of our product and its solid manufacturing elevates it above other similar products."

According to the company, the current market has a limited supply of door closers of this quality and lead times tend to be rather long when ordering these hard to get closers with polished finishes. The number of units available in Polished Brass finish are very low and, other than HomebuildersHardware.com, no supplier has any units of this particular door closer in Polished Chrome finish as ready to ship. Emily says, "Even if you can find similar door closers in these hard-to-achieve finishes, you'll find that they have metal covers, which we found would eventually corrode on the inside and thereby end up ruining the entire cover.

Emily elaborates on the hard work and effort that went into creating the product, saying, "We had to conduct several tests before we were able to achieve the beautiful polished finish we have now. In fact, the polish on the Anti Corrosion Plastic Cover was achieved by vacuum metalizing the plastic prior to plating. The end result is identical to "on-metal plating", and this will ensure that the corrosion issue will not occur. We believe this is a first in the industry. We currently have several hundred door closers available for sale right away, with more in production."

The heavy duty door closer in question was expertly crafted from cast iron with a steel arm and heat-treated piston, explains HomebuildersHardware.com. A powder-coated finish is also used to enhance the product's ability to resist corrosion. According to the company, the door closer is able to last continuous use over many years and comes with a unmatched lifetime warranty.

Emily says, "With our product, you'll essentially have a door that can close on its own. We've tested the door closer thoroughly with over 1,000,000 (yes, 1 million!), openings and we can ensure that the Extra Heavy Duty Closer maintains silence and security wherever it's used. We've also outfitted it with a commercial-grade arm that won't interfere when opening, and it closes the door slowly enough to allow for graceful entrances and exits. Enjoy automatic, hands-free closing and latching while you let the door do the work."

She continues, "In addition to everything else, the door closer is also completely adjustable to your needs, allowing you to let your customers go at their own pace. You can adjust the Door Closer to any foot traffic situation and ensure its speed fits your needs, as it offers six levels of power to choose from. Simply choose the closing speed to suit the circumstances and reduce liability at any high-traffic entrance."

HomebuildersHardware have proven themselves reliable providers of quality commercial hardware, as made evident by a quick look at the company's customer reviews. In one such review on the company's website, Rob B. says, "Very knowledgeable expert on the phone made sure I bought just the right product. They arranged local pick-up and everything went very smoothly. I highly recommend Homebuilders Hardware and will use them again should the need arise. Well done, thank you!"

In another review, Henry G. praises the company, saying, "Hats off to your company! We needed to replace a few doors in our office. We were offered by our installer to purchase the door closers for us. We figured that we'd get a better deal on our own. Boy, were we right. Not only did we find better quality and price than we expected, but the service you provided in making sure we got it in a timely fashion was second to none! I wish all online companies cared as much as you do!"
