

Long Island Personal Injury Law Firm Banville Law Opens New Location

February 21, 2020

February 21, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

A new law office has opened in Woodbury, NY, Banville Law.

Although the legal team has been in practice for a long time, this new opening will allow them to better serve the residents on Long Island.

"For years our team has helped Woodbury residents take legal action following a construction accident, truck accident, bus accident, car accident, slip and fall accident, or workplace accident. Having a local law office now allows us to provide even more support and to become further involved in the local community," stated Laurence Banville, the managing partner at the firm.

The Woodbury personal injury lawyers also offer services for residents who are seeking legal assistance following sexual assault, birth injury, or medical malpractice. Injured workers can get the help they need with workers' compensation claims, appeals, and social security disability claims.

"We treat every client's case as though it were our own. Communication is key to an excellent relationship with our clients which is why we provide regular case updates. Our goal is to ensure that every client is satisfied with the outcome of their legal complaint," said Banville.

Knowing that many accident victims are unable to seek legal counsel because of the cost, Banville Law offers free consultations and works on a contingency fee, which means that clients pay nothing out of pocket until the Woodbury legal team obtains a settlement or successful verdict.

The new office opened in January 2020 and serves clients in Woodbury, Muttontown, Jericho, Syosset, West Hills, Brookville, Melville, and Huntington in Nassau County.
