Philadelphia, PA - Abuse Guardian, a team of sexual abuse attorneys in Philadelphia, has announced the opening of a new law office in Center City.

"Our law offices have been helping the victims of sexual assault in the State of Pennsylvania for decades. From our new Center City location, we're looking to more effectively serve the victims in the area. It will also permit our attorneys to become even more involved in local events and organizations in the community," explained Brian Kent, a managing partner at the firm.

Abuse Guardian boasts an experienced team of sexual abuse lawyers in Philly as well as legal representatives dedicated to sexual assault, child abuse and sex trafficking cases. They've also pursued cases against organizations who've permitted these crimes to go on in the past including schools, churches and massage spas.

Kent added, "Our team of former sex crimes prosecutors is absolutely dedicated to standing besides victims and fighting for justice. When the criminal justice system fails the very people it should be protecting, we use the powerful options made available by the civil justice system to hold accountable the perpetrators of the crimes and the organizations that enable them. We believe victims' voice deserves to be heard and are committed to helping those strong enough to step forward with claims to obtain justice."

From their recently-inaugurated Walnut Street location, Abuse Guardian serves the following local neighborhoods, among many others: Center City, South Philadelphia, University City, West Philadelphia, Southwest Philadelphia, Kingsessing, North Philadelphia, Cobbs Creek, Kensington, Port Richmond, Bala Cynwyd, and Roxborough-Manayunk.

The new law office is located at: Abuse Guardian, 1435 Walnut St #700-B, Philadelphia, PA 19102, USA, (215) 515-9889.
