March 05, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Calgary, AB based Salopek & Associates Ltd. is pleased to announce that they are ready to take on new clients who wish to make use of their services, especially if they require an experienced human resources consultant. Boasting a unique perspective of the industry and a commitment to ensuring their clients' organization function at their best, the human resources and business consultants at Salopek & Associates specialize in strategy, human resources and board governance.

According to the company, their human resource consultants are able to ensure that each client's employees fulfill the best interests of the company in question. Their job involves creating and developing a human resources model that takes each individual company's requirements, strengths and potential weaknesses into account in order to ensure that they are using their employees to further their goals as effectively as possible. Similarly, an experienced human resources consultant can investigate a company's workforce and identify whether or not they are operating at a reasonably high level of productivity. Should this not be the case, the consultant can then suggest and enact measures that serve to boost efficiency across the organization.

The scope of a human resources consultant's work can have as short or far a reach as their clients require. For instance, a consultant from Salopek & Associates Calgary may be called in to look over a specific issue or so and remain on call until it is resolved. On the other hand, they can be called in to analyze a company's organizational layout from top to bottom, with the intention of reallocating personnel to roles they are more suitable for. This process may even involve an overhaul of a company's leadership, should they believe it necessary. As such, a human resources consultant's contract may require their presence anywhere from several months to a year or more. Whatever the circumstances, the consultant's primary goal will always be to leave their clients with an HR department that functions at peak efficiency and productivity.

Clients come in all shapes and sizes, ranging across the full spectrum of industries in existence. Given this extensive variety, Salopek & Associates' understands that their own personnel must be proficient in many fields. In addition to human resource management, they may be required to have a grasp of finance, sales and marketing, IT, accounting and more. In many situations, they will also need to be intimately familiar with labor laws, equal opportunity employment and much more.

While a more generalized grasp of human resources may be enough for certain companies, especially Small and Medium enterprises, others such as national and multinational corporations will likely require the attention of specialists. Fortunately, Salopek and Associates is always able to provide the expertise any client needs. Given that the firm takes great pains to fill out their own ranks with the best minds they can find, they understand how vital it is for a company to attract, retain and develop the right people. As such, they are always on hand to lend their expertise to clients whose staffing concerns require immediate attention. In practice, the team at Salopek & Associates is only a phone call or email away. They serve clients across Canada, with Associates in Calgary, Fort McMurray, Ottawa and Toronto.

The feedback left online by Salopek & Associates' clients is testament to the quality of their services. Shannon Hughes says in her 5-Star Google review, "In my role as a benefits consultant, I have had the pleasure of working with Salopek on several occasions with mutual clients. Their consultants are extremely knowledgeable and clearly passionate about the work they do. They are a fantastic resource for organizations who are looking for HR support. I am confident in highly recommending their services."
