Go Industries Inc., known for its truck accessories and law enforcement gear, has excitedly launched its new Medium Duty grille guard designed for vehicles like the Chevrolet C4500, Chevrolet C6500, Ford F650, Ford F750, and International CV515. This step up reaffirms Go Industries' long-held promise of delivering strong vehicle upgrades since 1978.

The Medium Duty grille guard offers added protection without cutting or drilling needed, making installation easier for vehicle owners. These guards are specially designed for tilt-body vehicles, allowing easy access with a forward articulation feature. This benefit makes maintenance jobs simpler. The grille guard is fully welded with headlight brush guards from 1.9" by 14-gauge tubing and 2.5" center cross tubes, promising strong durability. Plus, they come with a winch tray that fits most brands up to 16.5k, vital for drivers who need trustworthy tools in tough situations.

Go Industries pays close attention to detail with a black textured powder coat finish on the grille guards, boosting both looks and resistance to wear. The laser-cut center screen made from 18-gauge material adds both style and protection to the design. This product line shows Go Industries' focus on blending usefulness with an eye-catching design to meet the varied needs of their customers.

The company proudly manufactures all their grille guards, bumper replacements, and headache racks in the U.S.A. This dedication ensures high standards of quality and craftsmanship while supporting local economies through jobs and rigorous quality checks for reliable deliveries.

A spokesperson from Go Industries said, "Our aim has always been to offer top-tier equipment meeting both the practical and quality demands of our clients. The new Medium Duty grille guard reflects this mission, equipping drivers with products to support their vehicles in everyday and tough conditions."

Beyond grille guards, Go Industries provides a wide range of truck accessories including air flow tailgates, mud flaps, and steps.
