

Slow Feed Cat Bowl Suggested As A Good Idea To Reduce The Possibility of Bloat

Durham, DH - A few years ago, MLive.com wrote an article to highlight the issue of bloating in pets. Bloating is a serious condition that can occur when pets eat too quickly and swallow a lot of air and gas. In response to this serious problem, the Amazon vendor Simply Pets Online has launched a unique product. The product is called Slow Feed Cat Bowl and is made for both dogs and cats.

MLive.com is a website from the Michigan Live Media Group which features news stories coming out of Michigan. In the noted article, reporter Lorrie Shaw commented that mealtime for dogs can become a serious problem as a lot of times the pets tend to gobble down food ?like they?ve not eaten in days.? According to the report this is especially true if the household had many dogs in the house.

The reporter Shaw mentioned that ?This was the case in my own household for years, and having tried different approaches to help mitigate the issues associated with my dog's habit of inhaling their food ? with the risk of a life-threatening condition called bloat being one ? I realized some things.?

The MLive.com reporter realized that the solution to the problem was to find out the reasons why her pets were eating quickly and take appropriate steps to reduce it from happening. MLive.com suggested getting the pets checked for parasites by a certified veterinarian since parasites can affect how the body absorbs nutrients from food. Another thing that can be done is to place multiple pets in different rooms and feed separately. The pet can also be fed smaller meals more frequently throughout the duration of the day. The last two highlight that a common solution is to slow down the eating time of pets so that they can absorb less gas.

A spokesperson from Simply Pets Online remarked, ?this report from MLive.com shows how pets can be affected by the way in which they eat. The problem of bloating can be solved by decreasing how fast pets consume meals. Our slow feed cat bowl creates the right environment to a healthier and more manageable mealtime for pets.?

According to Simply Pets Online, their product, slow feed cat bowl, offers a simple solution to the problem of bloating in pets. The feeder bowl is created to slow down feeding and allows pets to take their time while eating. It is designed in a unique puzzle format that makes pets spend a longer amount of time chewing meals. According to the company, the slow feed cat bowl makes mealtimes slower and ?more as nature intended.?

The slow feed cat bowl from Simply Pets Online has been created by professional veterinarians who use it daily in their own vet clinics. The feeder bowl not only causes slower eating and reduces the possibility of bloat but it also reduces the likelihood of pets regurgitating food and overeating.

The slow feed cat bowl is sold exclusively on Amazon for online shoppers. Currently customers can purchase the feeding bowl for an affordable discounted price below $16.
