August 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The small, compact HD spy camera by Ron's Amazing Products in Catonsville, Maryland, has reached the top selling list on the Amazon marketplace. The spy camera has been a big hit on the marketplace and has seen many customer comments.

The pen camera has now more than 100 reviews, the majority of which are five stars. Customers are raving about the camera feature, and the fact that the spy camera looks like a normal desktop pen.

"It's a really fun camera," says one Amazon customer. "I purchased it as a gift for someone else and then just had to have one for myself. It looks just like a real pen, but the camera function is amazing."

Ronald Hoff, owner and CEO of Ron's Amazing Products, says the company could not be more pleased with the camera's reception. He says, "We are thrilled at the number of great reviews that we've received, and we can't wait to roll out our next great product for our loyal customer base."

The camera, which can be viewed on Amazon at <http://www.amazon.com/gp/product/B00G2TEKM2>, features an easy plug and play operation, with a full size built in USB connector, which can be plugged directly into a computer or smart TV. It is equipped to run on Windows, Apple, and Linux operating systems, with no need for any driver installation.

The camera has 8GB of memory built in, and features a high definition 720p lens with a width and height of 1280 X 720. Color video quality can be enjoyed in 30FPS AVI format. The camera also features a built in lithium ion rechargeable battery, which offers up to 60 minutes of video recording time.

Ron's Amazing Products offers a variety of products, including the HD spy camera pen that can be purchased on Amazon. The company backs all purchases with a 90 day money back guarantee, and their two year product warranty.
