To date, scientific research has identified three primary compounds that restore hair lost to male pattern baldness (androgenic alopecia): Minoxidil (trademark name Rogaine); Finasteride (trademark name Propecia); and Biotinyl Tripeptide-1 (trademark name Procapil). Lately the spotlight has turned to Procapil - a DHT-blocking compound patented in Europe - because unlike Finasteride, it can be used safely by both men and women, and also because it has a measurably higher rate of hair growth success than Minoxidil. Only one product available in the United States includes Procapil in a maximum potency formulation ? VITAMINS Hair Growth Shampoo, produced by Aspen-based Nourish Beaute. Now, for a limited time only, Nourish Beaute is offering free shipping on all orders processed through Amazon.com.

Clinical tests have shown that Procapil can increase new hair growth by up to 121%, as well as to reduce hair loss by 46%, thanks to its effective DHT blocking mechanism. DHT (Dihydrotestosterone) is the body's hormone responsible for age-related hair loss due to a natural increase in middle age. In excessive amounts, DHT literally starves hair to death by blocking the crucial nutrients required by the dermal papilla cells which produce hair follicles. However, with regular, consistent use, VITAMINS hair loss shampoo with Procapil can prevent DHT buildup at the roots.

"Procapil is one of the emerging new trends in the beauty industry," explains Nourish Beaute founder Cynthia Ferrara. "It is still fairly unknown among US consumers and furthermore, due to its expense, most products currently available in the United States don't even include very much. We are the only company that sells the maximum dosage of Procapil in each non-prescription bottle of VITAMINS Shampoo, to make it the best hair loss shampoo on the market."

Unlike other hair-growth products like Minoxidil or Finasteride, Procapil is a naturally derived compound, containing no synthetic drugs or hormones, meaning it may be safely used by both men and women without side effects or any chemical smell. It is based on a modified, high potency biotin molecule which has been long known to be a factor in healthy hair and skin growth. Two additional ingredients are added to the patented blend. Apigenin (derived from grapefruit and other citrus) which is a potent vasodilator to help increase blood circulation, and thus nutritive intake by the hair follicles; and Oleanolic Acid, an antioxidant which makes hair stronger and less susceptible to loss as well as works as an anti-inflammatory to prevent the damage caused by DHT.

Nourish Beaute's VITAMINS Shampoo is produced by a small, family-owned company competing head-to-head with Nioxin, Minoxidil and Rogaine. It is manufactured in the USA in an FDA-registered, GMP-Certified facility and contains non-GMO ingredients.
