July 30, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

As a bonus to its clients, Projects by Design, a Professional Services Consulting Organization in Bluffton, SC, is offering a free online course on managing virtual teams.

The one-hour course is designed to give an introduction to various approaches to the management of virtual teams. Team managers are expected to gain practical insights into how to set up and maintain teams regardless of where they work.

In the course, the various types of virtual teams will also be discussed. This way, clients will understand how to manage each type best, says Dan Barringer, Projects by Design president. Barringer is a program and project management expert with over 40 years of experience.

"In this course, I packed in my 40 years of high-performing teams experience starting in small units and special operations in the military, later delivering high-quality deliverables and project teams for Fortune 500 companies," says Barringer. Aside from his work experience, Barringer also revealed that he has been operating virtual teams since 2004.

Meanwhile, the free online course will also focus on building high-performing teams following typical people and process tools model. Aside from offering the course for free, the Best Agile Development Training Online in Bluffton, SC, also pledged to provide a tool kit on managing high-performing virtual teams.

Barringer said Projects by Design would also be launching a new learning management system along with several courses starting this July. All their virtual on-demand courses are available on their newly-revamped website, <https://projectsbydesign.net/>.

At present, the project management consulting firm offers a preparatory course for the 2021 Certified Associate in Project Management (CAPM) examination. CAPM is a five-year certification from the globally-recognized standard in project management, the Project Management Institute (PMI). Projects by Design will be offering the live online course on CAPM examination with flexible schedules starting this month until October.

The project management consulting firm also starts its online course on Building High Performing Teams with Tuckman's Ladder. Tuckman's Ladder is an observational concept on how the highest performing teams are built and maintained. Certificate from this course qualified for a 2.5 Professional Development Units (PDUs) or Scrum Education Unit® (SEU®) credits.

Projects by Design said they would also be adding Introduction to Disciplined Agile (DA) on its online courses. DA is a hybrid toolkit that can guide managers, team members, and their enterprise or business to increase effectiveness.

"At Projects by Design, we know that by learning and adapting, our customers can apply a variety of project management practices and methodologies to transform project teams into high performing, powerfully effective, value-focused delivery organizations," the company states.
