April 28, 2016 -

Arnesen Webb, P.A., an insurance law firm in Boca Raton, FL, has announced that they now offer free consultations for those who are in need of storm damage claim lawyers. Florida is hit by numerous hurricanes and other storms each year, and this leads to various insurance disputes. The firm wants to ensure that anyone who has suffered damages caused by storms would be able to get the compensation that they are entitled to as part of their insurance policy.

Jay Arnesen, co-founder of Arnesen Webb, P.A., says: "Florida is battered by storms each and every year, and most of us know at least one person who had to deal with an insurance company that wouldn't pay out as much as they thought, withhold payment for lengthy periods of time, or refuse to pay altogether. We want to encourage anyone who has been in that situation to contact us for a free consultation to see how we can help them."

In April 2015, the state of Florida suffered damage due to severe winds and hail stones. Over $1 billion in damage was suffered due to these storms. In January of this year, Florida was hit by two subsequent tornadoes. Storm Erika hit Florida in August of 2015, and people are still recovering from this. Arnesen Webb is there to make sure people who have been affected by these or any other weather events are able to get the money they are entitled to under their insurance premiums.

"Understandably, insurance companies would like to minimize the amount that they pay out," adds Jay Arnesen. "They make their money by collecting as many insurance premiums as possible, and paying out as little as possible. Some companies go to the extent of hoping that people have such limited knowledge of their rights and responsibilities and that they won't contest any offer the insurance company has for them. We want to make sure nobody falls victim to this anymore."

Those interested in using the free consultation service are encouraged to contact the law firm through http://insurancelawyers.org/contact/ to make the arrangements. The consultation is completely free and no obligation.
