September 15, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Chefs Limited, a High Point, North Carolina based kitchen accessories company, has announced the launch of a new set of cooking utensils. This utensil set is made up of a carousel stand, soup ladle, spaghetti server, potato masher, flipper spatula, slotted spoon, and whisk.

Shawn Stanton, owner and CEO of Chefs Limited, released a statement about the product launch. He said, "Our newest set of utensils is well constructed and built with FDA approved nylon heads that are heat resistant to 410 degrees Fahrenheit. They're perfect for non-stick cookware."

Chefs Limited regularly features new modern products that are designed for consumer kitchens. This newest item includes six utensils in addition to the revolving carousel utensil holder. The company states that this newest item in their kitchen accessory lineup offers the bold modern design that they are famous for, and is accented by a contrasting black and white color scheme. No word has been given about other colors that may be available in the future. They state that offering these utensils in this color scheme will match up well with the stainless steel appliances in most consumer kitchen themes.

"We've designed it to take up very little space, and to include the most commonly used utensils in most consumer kitchens," states Shawn Stanton. "Plus the color scheme makes it perfect for any kitchen, and it's great as a gift for the holidays, weddings, or just anytime you need to give something useful and unique."

Chefs Limited is offering a 100 percent money back guarantee to customers. Those interested in learning more or purchasing the set can buy here at Amazon.com.

More about the new utensil set and the company in general can be viewed on chefslimited.com. Chefs Limited has also released a You Tube video, highlighting the utensil set, and explaining its uses and benefits.

Chefs Limited is a subsidiary of SCS Sourcing, a housewares company that recently launched their newest brand of modern kitchenware. This utensil set is part of that line, and the company states that more products will be added as they are designed to go along with the modern kitchen theme.
