Executive Base Network Expands Virtual Business Address Service for San Ramon and Tri-Valley Professionals

September 03, 2026

San Ramon, California - September 03, 2026 -
Executive Base Network, a women-owned executive suite and virtual office provider operating in San Ramon since 1984, is responding to growing demand among home-based businesses and remote professionals across the Tri-Valley for a professional commercial address. As remote work continues to reshape how small businesses operate, more solopreneurs and independent professionals are seeking ways to register and license their businesses without listing a home address on public records.

The company reports that home-based business owners throughout San Ramon, Danville, Dublin, Pleasanton, and Walnut Creek increasingly use its 111 Deerwood Road location to establish an Executive Base Network virtual business address in San Ramon. The address is a staffed commercial office building just off Interstate 680 at Crow Canyon Road, rather than a post office box. That distinction allows businesses to present an established commercial location to clients, partners, and regulatory filings.

Virtual office packages start at 45 dollars per month on month-to-month terms with no long-term commitment. Packages can include mail handling and live phone answering, giving remote professionals the administrative presence of a traditional office without the cost of a full-time workspace. Business owners using the service can keep their home addresses off public records while maintaining a recognized Tri-Valley business location.

The virtual office model has gained traction among solopreneurs, remote workers, and small businesses throughout the Bay Area as flexible workspace arrangements become standard practice. Executive Base Network operates with local ownership, transparent pricing, and no long-term contract requirements, and it offers on-site facilities that virtual clients can access when in-person needs arise.

In addition to virtual office packages, Executive Base Network provides full-time office packages, meeting room rentals, and private offices on demand. The company's meeting facilities feature professional-grade technology and high-speed internet connectivity, supporting clients who occasionally require physical space for meetings and workshops.

Home-based business owners interested in establishing a professional address can contact Executive Base Network to set up a virtual business address.

"Home-based business owners across the Tri-Valley want a professional address they can use on their business license and share with clients, but many do not need or want the expense of a full-time office," said Tara Teodoro, President and CEO of Executive Base Network. "A virtual business address lets them protect their privacy, meet registration requirements, and present an established commercial location, all while keeping their overhead low and their terms flexible."

Executive Base Network is an office space rental agency based in San Ramon, California, serving Tri-Valley professionals since 1984.
