Glendale, Arizona-based Law Offices of Gary L. Rohlwing is pleased to announce that they are offering a new legal service to help local clients with set aside cases. Other services the law firm provides include DUI, Criminal Defense, and Domestic Violence representation for residents of Glendale, Peoria, Phoenix, Goodyear, and the surrounding areas.

Law Offices of Gary L. Rohlwing was founded by Gary L. Rohlwing. He graduated from the University of Arizona Law School in 1981 and has been in legal practice for over 35 years. He is a member of the State Bar of Arizona and the Maricopa County Bar Association and has been a prosecutor for Phoenix and Peoria. He provides services for over 25 areas of practice and has been the Attorney of Record for more than 3,500 cases.

Rohlwing assures clients that he will personally take care of their cases and will not hand them off to an associate. He gives his clients the time and the attention they need in order to make sure that their cases are dealt with in a professional manner. His hands-on approach takes into account that each case is different, and he understands that the best solution will vary from case to case. In fact, he explains that there are instances when it is wiser to go to trial than to pursue a plea agreement.

The firm can handle almost all types of felony and misdemeanor cases. For instance, they often tackle cases involving physical, sexual, or verbal assault. Assault is usually considered a misdemeanor but may also be considered a felony in cases where the assaulter commits assault with a weapon or a dangerous object. If the victim suffers serious physical injuries, assault cases can also turn into aggravated assault cases.

Additionally, the firm is able to take on disorderly conduct cases. Disorderly conduct refers to reckless actions that may make the people around the perpetrator feel intimidated or disrupted. Some examples of disorderly conduct are creating unreasonable noise, starting fights with other people, and disrupting business operations. Such cases usually stem from reports by neighbors or instances where an individual's behavior is deemed disorderly by the police.

Similarly, domestic violence cases fall under the firm's purview. Domestic violence usually pertains to physical abuse but may also involve psychological, sexual, or emotional abuse. There are also certain cases that involve financial abuse (where a person limits their partner's access to finances for unfounded reasons or spiritual abuse where partners are limited from practicing their religious beliefs).

Furthermore, the Gary Rohlwing law office encourages their community to come forward with other types of cases including drug crimes, forgery, fraud, and much more. In fact, due to the firm's expertise and professional conduct, they have received great reviews from many of their previous clients.

Steve Horowitz says in a 5-Star Google review of the law office, "I've used Gary on numerous occasions, and his advice and representation is always spot on. Gary always puts his client's best interest first; you never feel like the clock is running and you're going to be charged for every second you speak with him. His vast knowledge of law always impresses me no matter what the circumstances have been. I would highly recommend using Gary as your attorney, you won't be disappointed."

Meanwhile, John Cook states, "Mr. Gary Rohlwing is absolutely, hands down, one of the best offices for DUI or Criminal Defense & Domestic Violence that I have ever worked with! If you need someone to represent your case then he is the man. Mr. Gary Rohlwing personally handles your case with over 30 years of experience. He was very personable, understanding, and handled my personal information as it was his own family's. I also loved how hands-on we communicated via email and text, with immediate return of phone calls and my million What If questions. Needless to say, I felt very confident and in the best hands possible. Mr. Gary Rohlwing's opinions, advice and suggestions went above and beyond my expectations.
