December 03, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

MoldStar Remediation, Atlanta's most trusted mold remediation company, has launched a new blog post in their series of posts related to "Are you getting Sick from Mold Exposure." The post details different types of toxic mold and the associated health risks that prolonged exposure brings. The post is now live under the blog/resources of the MoldStar Remediation website.

With years of experience in mold testing, mold removal and clean up, and water restoration, owner Jeremy Shelton and the MoldStar remediation team has long since been Atlanta's top choice for remediation and indoor air quality. MoldStar separates itself from other companies in the Atlanta area in several ways. First and foremost, their dedication and commitment to their customers are second to none and are confirmed by the number of online reviews. Second, Jeremy holds advanced certifications in Water Damage Restoration and Applied Microbial Remediations from the top-rated indoor environmental accreditation body. Jeremy and his team bring technical expertise and knowledge that very few mold remediation companies in Atlanta can match. Mr. Shelton also holds certifications as a Certified Microbial Consultant through ACAC, American Council for Accredited Certification.

An excerpt from the blog reads, "Mold spores are ubiquitous, meaning that they're literally everywhere. In fact, most people breathe in mold spores every day, both indoors and outdoors, without even knowing it. Mold spores are harmful in large doses or over long periods of time, however, and even the healthiest person can be seriously affected. A mold problem in the home is especially dangerous to anyone with preexisting conditions, such as COPD and asthma, to the elderly, and to young children and babies."

In a time when homeowners are spending more time than ever at home, indoor air quality is more important than ever. Homeowners located within Atlanta, Sandy Springs, Roswell, Marietta, or Metro Atlanta who think they may be suffering from toxic mold exposure are encouraged to speak to the MoldStar Remediation team. Consultations are free, and the information provided could prove to be invaluable. Real Estate Agents, Plumbers, and other local service businesses or licensed tradesmen are invited to reach out to the MoldStar Team to be featured on the resources page.
