Dr. Turner stresses the importance of hiring the services of an experienced personal injury attorney in Atlanta to win an accident settlement for the victim if the accident wasn't their fault. "Pursuing a car accident injury lawsuit may seem like an impossible task if you do it on your own," which could mean having to accept what the insurance company offers.

An experienced Atlanta car accident doctor knows the importance of documenting injuries after a proper diagnosis immediately after the motor vehicle collision. Taking immediate medical assistance ensures that the injuries are treated in time and do not become chronic. The Atlanta car accident doctor suggests consulting with a personal injury lawyer immediately after the injuries have been addressed to put pressure on insurance companies.

An auto accident lawyer in Atlanta, GA, will help the victim of the accident earn deserving compensation from the insurance company. As soon as you hire a personal injury lawyer, your insurance company will get serious about your case.

The top chiropractor in Atlanta warns against handling the case with the insurance company without legal assistance. Your insurance company is a business, and the main goal of a business is to make a profit. To make a profit, they need to pay you as little as possible. The less they pay you, the better their bottom line looks.

The insurance company will do all it can to reduce the compensation claim if not reject it, warns the Atlanta car accident chiropractor, adding that it can hire investigators that will follow you around trying to catch you engaging in any activities that could oppose the details of your personal injury claim.

Dr. Summer Turner advises car accident victims in Atlanta, GA, not to discuss the details of their case with anyone besides their doctors and lawyers. The accident chiropractor suggests keeping all details secret from friends and family until the personal injury lawsuit is resolved.
