This helps us keep our finger on the pulse of the community and listen to the problems that everyday citizens are facing. It also gives us a chance to help out real people who are in dire need of legal advice but lack the resources to seek it out themselves. We also want to introduce the community to our talented team of litigators. We get a chance to introduce the wonderful people of southeast Virginia to our law firm and the excellent quality of service we provide while at the same time imparting valuable legal advice to those who need it."
