The Solana Beach dentistry clinic claims to use the latest ultramodern technology and best practices to offer dental procedures that give patients long-term, sustainable solutions. The clinic says that its focus is on making dentist appointments pleasant and approachable for even the most apprehensive patients. The clinic is LGBTQ-friendly and a women-led organization helmed by Dr. Michelle Sandler and Dr. Wanda Kauffman, a duo that is originally from Boston.

Dr. Sandler obtained her doctorate in dental medicine in 1987 from the University of Pennsylvania while her partner Dr. Kauffman received her doctorate in dental medicine in 1983 from Tufts University, both of which are institutions of world renown that rank consistently high in all med school rankings. The doctors are affiliated with organizations such as the American Dental Association, American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry, San Diego County Dental Society, and California Dental Association. Before moving to San Diego, they were in partnership for over 16 years.

A spokesperson for the clinic, Elan Weinstein says, "Here at Solana Family Dental, family comes first. We treat our patients with their best interests in mind just like a real family member would. We don't just administer short-term fixes. We take the time to understand and address all of your needs and concerns. We try to have open and honest communication about your dental health goals. Once we get the full picture of what you are trying to achieve, our doctors recommend the best way to move forward. Our entire staff is dedicated to ensuring your comfort throughout the process. A dentist appointment doesn't have to be intimidating. Contact us today and find out why we are so loved by our patients."

A review of the clinic's services by Gale Keel says, "I am extremely impressed with the sterilization and organizational processes that Solana Family Dental has put in place due to Covid. They really have gone above and beyond on this front with great attention paid to patient and staff safety. And I of course have always been impressed with the exceptional quality of care provided by Dr. Sandler and staff. I am happy to highly recommend Solana Family Dental for all family and individual dental care!!!"
