3 Bees and Me, an online-based baby products company, happily announced that their premium sunshade for cars is now considered a popular gift for parents. This is good news for their team because parents, especially those with small kids are primarily their target market.

"First of all, we would like to thank all those who have brought our car sunshade with a kid-friendly dog design. We are very happy that a lot of people consider our product as an awesome choice of gift for their families and friends", says 3 Bees and Me representative, Holly James. "We also appreciate the very positive feedbacks that you are continuously giving us. Rest assured that we will continue to bring to you awesome items that you and your kids will enjoy."

As mentioned by their representative, the shade has so far received so many good reviews such as the one given by Jennifer L. Gorczynski which says, "Not all car shades are created equal. Some are drab and boring; some don't provide great coverage and some have a hard time staying put. Thankfully that is not the case at all with these fun shades. I like that they come packaged in a container you can easily get them back into. The shades are easy to install and I found they really do stay firmly in place until you are ready to take them down. The fun dog design gives your kids something to look at yet still provides the needed shade and protection for your babies. They are also easy to wrap up and store when you don't want them up in your car. I am very happy with these shades.?

This car shades features a kid-friendly dog design that will surely be enjoyed especially by babies and kids. It is made of durable nylon-mesh screen that is a shade or two darker than most brands found in the market today. While it is darker than other competitors, it still allows enough light to pass through it for safe driving. The actual size of the shade will fit most car and SUVs. Each set comes with two shades with another two extra suction cups.

With the tight brand competition in sun shades nowadays, it can be considered a big deal if people will consider a product great gift choice. It is therefore no wonder why the people behind 3 Bees and Me are very happy with customers? reception for their car shade. It is still available at www.amazon.com/gp/product/B00X32B9IY.
