

Social Media Management Services Beta Tested And Now Launched

September 30, 2015

September 30, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

ProMediaAuthority, operating from San Diego, CA, has announced that they have recently completed the beta testing phase of their services for social media management. As the testing had positive results, they have officially launched the service as well. To celebrate, they are now offering a very limited time only sale to all new clients.

Andrew Stangl from ProMediaAuthority says: "Social media management is a vital tool in terms of getting an online business known and respected. Our automated social media services have proven to be very beneficial through our beta testing. In fact, we have found them to lead to as many as 100 recurring referrals. To celebrate this and to properly launch our service, we are offering a discount."

For a limited time only, all new customers can access the social media management services with a $100 discount. Additionally, they will receive further discounts for any customer they refer. One customer referred means a 15% discount, two customers result into a 33% discount, and three customers provide a 50% discount. If they refer four customers, they will receive a free lifetime service.

ProMediaAuthority currently has a demo feature on their website. This enables potential clients to test the service before they purchase it. Further details about the service are also available through the company's Facebook page and Twitter feed. Both of these social media tools enable clients to see what 100% automatically posted content looks like.

With many companies, social media management services means providing access to a dashboard from which all accounts can be managed simultaneously. While this is a convenient service, ProMediaAuthority wanted to take it a step further by offering the creation and posting of the content as well. "This feature truly is unique in the industry," adds Andrew Stangl. "The service is fully automated, which includes writing and posting content and images. Many of our clients simply had no idea what to post or complained that it took too much time away from their business, so we decided to eliminate that problem by offering to write and post on their behalf. Naturally, clients can post their own content through the dashboard as well. We encourage them to monitor which one of the two leads to more clicks and likes."

To access the discount on the automated social media service, clients can enter promo code 'pmafallsocial' at checkout.
