Quantum Marketing System Announces 2016 Advisor Workshop Schedule

October 06, 2015

October 06, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Quantum Marketing System, a sales and marketing training company based in Minneapolis, MN, has announced the 2016 schedule for a free two-day marketing workshop for insurance agents and financial advisors. The schedule has already been revealed, and will be held on the following dates:

February 4th - 5th in Austin TX

April 28th - 29th in Eden Prairie MN

July 14th - 15th in Eden Prairie MN

October 6th - 7th in Eden Prairie MN

Spots are still available for those who qualify. However, only 60 seats are available in 2016 and they will fill up quickly. Interested insurance agents and financial advisors can register for a free webinar to learn more about the workshop and secure their spot at quantummarketingwebinar.com

"The webinar discusses how you can wage your own personal marketing revolt and thereby double your income," says Jeffrey Thompson developer of the Quantum Marketing System. "Essentially, it will show people a system whereby their marketing costs do not actually occur until after they have made the sale. I am offering this information for free for a limited time only, and only to the first 60 people who are interested and qualify to attend the workshop, so get there quickly."

The system will teach participants how to motivate other business owners to send their best clients their way. This is done through a little-known regulatory loophole that can be used to become practically irresistible. Secondly, it teaches life insurance agents and financial advisors how they can become selective and only work with their ideal prospects. In so doing, they can truly recession proof their business because they are assured any clients that come their way are the right type of client as well. Finally, it will teach agents and advisors how to make sure they know exactly where their next client will be coming from, but developing reliable consistent sources of qualified prospects..

Previous webinars and workshops completed by Quantum Marketing System have been positively reviewed. "Since initially partnering with Jeff Thompson, the results have been phenomenal and my sales and revenue have grown by over 500% in the last 24 months, without the upfront cost and risk associated with other marketing," says AK from California. "My business is on track to continue the growth trend that began 24 months ago. I would highly recommend taking advantage of working with Jeff and his Quantum Marketing System as a core marketing strategy."

Further details about the workshop and other services offered by company can be obtained through quantummarketingsystem.com. Life insurance agents and financial advisors are encouraged to secure their spot on the webinar today, to ensure their opportunity to addend the workshops.
