ORLANDO, Fla. ? The Bryan Peterson School of Photography (BPSOP) announced today that it has added new course and instructor listings to its website, bpsop.com. Building on its well-respected foundation of online photography courses, the school is adding more depth and breadth to its curriculum and faculty.

?We are dedicated to bringing our students the best online photography learning experience possible,? said Bryan Peterson, CEO of BPSOP. ?Our school has gathered some of the top photographers in their respective areas. All of their talents, skills and critical insights are available for our students? artistic growth.?

New course offerings include ?iPhone Photography,? ?The Use of Gestalt in Photography,? and ?Stretching Your Frame of Mind.? Some of the new courses are extensions of existing workshops. These include ?Fine Art Nature Photography 2 - the Sequel,? ?Travel Photography II? and ?Stretching Your Frame of Mind, Part II.? All of BPSOP?s courses are entirely Internet-based, with student-teacher interaction taking place online. The classes contain a group critique process that enables students to improve their work over the duration of the course.

Joining the BPSOP faculty are such master photographers as Charlie Borland, Holly Higbee-Jansen and Donna Eaton. Borland is an award-winning commercial photographer based in Oregon. His photographs have been seen in National Geographic Adventure and Traveler, Newsweek and TV Guide. Donna Eaton was staff photographer for a raptor rehabilitation and education center before venturing out on her own as a professional photographer. She has won awards from Nature's Best and the National Wildlife Refuge Association. Holly Higbee-Jansen's work hangs in private and corporate art collections such as State Farm Insurance and Sysco Food Services' Corporate offices in California.

Peterson has been a photographer for over 30 years, of which 20 have involved teaching photography. He is the author of such best selling books as Understanding Exposure, Understanding Shutter Speed, Beyond Portraiture: Creative People Photography, and Learning to See Creatively.
