Pensacola, Fla. ? With Florida holding the top location slot for snowbirds (those who journey to warmer regions in the colder months) to flock to, an RV vacation location in Pensacola, FL is discussing the projected increase in snowbird camping through the end of the year.

"The 2021 summer camping season saw unprecedented growth and this month?s research predicts snowbird camping to finish strong too,? according to the Kampgrounds of America (KOA) October Report. ?Looking ahead to snowbird season, about 17% of all campers who have historically taken trips to the southern states plan to do so again this year, while 9% of campers plan to snowbird for the first time. It is estimated that 2.4 million active camping households will spend three or more months snowbird camping this year, while another 9.6 million plan to take a snowbird vacation for 1 to 2 weeks.? Additionally, 25% of snowbirds will be leaving for warmer climates before Thanksgiving, which is much sooner than in previous years.
