DECATUR, GA - October 28, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Arrowhead Clinic is a trusted chiropractic clinic in Decatur, Georgia, for its team of chiropractors that pride themselves on their commitment to patient care. A car accident is never a pleasant experience, and a victim should immediately seek medical care to treat any visible physical injuries that need medical attention, advises Dr. Roy Vogel of Arrowhead Clinic. The Decatur car accident chiropractor explains that ER doctors can treat a range of serious accident injuries. Accident victims can seek treatment for whiplash, spinal cord injuries, soft tissue injuries, and traumatic brain injuries.

A Decatur car accident chiropractor is the right person to visit if the accident injuries are not serious, advises Dr. Vogel, adding that any victim should call 911 after a crash, whether injured or not. The chiropractor in Decatur, GA, adds that some people do not have insurance and are afraid of calling 911 due to the costs of medical treatment. Without insurance, an accident victim might have to bear the cost of treatment and an ambulance ride. Emphasizing the need to call 911, Dr. Vogel explains that emergency responders are experts in injury assessment. They can assess injuries and decide if the victim needs to go to the emergency room.

At the scene of the accident, a police officer will write an accident report that can be used in filing a personal injury claim. The Decatur accident doctor cautions accident victims against delaying seeing a doctor even if they feel fine or have minor injuries, advising them to visit a car accident chiropractor.

The Decatur, Ga, accident chiropractor is specially trained in treating car accident injuries without drugs or invasive therapies. A chiropractor is aware of the need for collaborating with the victim's family doctor or insurance company to ensure a complete recovery. They begin the treatment by asking specific questions about the accident, doing a physical exam, and reviewing medical history. If needed, a car accident chiropractor may require imaging tests like X-rays. After the diagnosis, the Decatur chiropractor customizes a treatment plan.

Car accident chiropractors at Arrowhead Clinic are experienced in treating head injuries, back pain, pinched nerves, head injuries, neck pain, soft tissue injuries, and whiplash. Dr. Vogel asserts that some accident injuries are hidden and have no immediate visible signs, and require a diagnosis by an experienced doctor, emergency care provider, or chiropractor. The car accident chiropractor in Decatur warns that waiting for too long might make the injury worse and more difficult to treat. Additionally, any delay in diagnosis and treatment could affect the victim's accident injury claim as well, warns the chiropractor.

Dr. Roy Vogel advises victims to seek medical care right away to protect health and legal rights and get the best compensation for economic and non-economic damages. Receiving fair compensation requires that you seek medical attention within a certain amount of time after the accident. The sooner you receive care after your accident, the better, suggests the Decatur chiropractor. Dr. Vogel further also advises accident victims to consult with a personal injury attorney after the accident to help them fight their compensation claim.
