Brooklyn - Car accident lawyer Samantha Kucher (<https://www.rrklawgroup.com/car-accident-lawyer/>) releases a new article that discusses what happens after a car accident and how someone can seek the help of a lawyer. The car accident attorney mentions that in 2020, the National Safety Council reported that 42,060 people lost their lives on American roads. This is an 8 percent increase from the previous year.

According to the Brooklyn, New York car accident lawyer, "As home to nearly 8.4 million people, New York City is one of the most populated cities in the United States. As a large metropolis, we have a confluence of both motor vehicle and foot traffic, and with this comes the inevitability of car accidents and their resulting injuries and fatalities. Even the most minor of car accidents in New York can be deadly when it involves a pedestrian."

In the new article, the lawyer also discusses how the sheer amount of automobile and pedestrian traffic in the streets and avenues of New York City can be the perfect storm for traffic accidents and the devastating injuries and deaths they cause.

The lawyer also adds that being involved in a car accident can be stressful and overwhelming. A victim can be required to make many choices in a span of weeks and months. Attorney Samantha Kucher also mentions that decisions related to a car accident can be time-consuming.

Attorney Samantha Kucher says, "NYC car collisions are unfortunate at best and deadly at worst. A car accident can result in tremendous physical, emotional, and financial hardship and expensive litigation, not only for the victim but often for the whole family."

Additionally, in this new article, personal injury lawyer Samantha Kucher also mentions that New York is a no-fault state. This means that if someone is involved in an accident, they should seek their own insurance first. However, this doesn't mean that the person at-fault will not be responsible for the accident they caused.

Furthermore, the lawyer adds that in New York, if someone is involved in a car accident or crash, they must first file a claim with the insurance company first. Then they need to deal with their insurance adjuster to receive any benefits they may be entitled to. Their NYC insurance policy will cover their medical expenses, prescription medication, rehabilitation, and any other costs related to the accident.

Lastly, the lawyer emphasizes that it's very important to have an experienced lawyer who can help guide the victim in making their next steps.
