

Life Glow Products Brings Probiotics To Women With Early Christmas Gift

November 10, 2015

November 10, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Life Glow Products, a company based out of Carson City, NV, is having an early Christmas special for their probiotics for women. This allows consumers to purchase a bottle containing 60 capsules at $5 less than the regular price by using the coupon code 7E2FVBXR upon checkout at Amazon. The product works to promote digestive health and wellness in women and men, using ingredients that restore good bacteria to the stomach, aiding in gas and indigestion.

The company has been candid in their hopes that this special will bring more interest, not only to their probiotic product, but also to the importance of gut health and digestive health across North America. They have stated that when used in combination with a proper diet and fitness routine, those who use the probiotics can find themselves with a higher immune system, and healthier body overall.

Using the special code provided by Life Glow Products through the company's online sales portal at Amazon, allows consumers to receive the supplement product at a price reduced by five dollars. This is a large boon to men and women who want to try a probiotic, but haven't done so due to the high price of some products on the market. This brand also provides a 100% money back customer satisfaction guarantee to new shoppers, making the decision easier for the unsure.

Life Glow Products has made women's health issues a personal cause, and invite all those who are curious about the difference that probiotics can make, to try the capsules, or get in touch for more information. The company can be visited through their official website, Amazon sales channel, or social media accounts. Here customers can read up on ingredients and functionality of the supplements, learn more about the company and what they stand for, and also interact with other consumers.

The company encourages those who take advantage of the holiday deal to leave some feedback on the sales page regarding their experience. They have stated that they enjoy hearing back from customers, and use the information gained through these comments to continue growing and evolving as a company to better suit the needs of loyal consumers.
