

Empower Network Launches New Uniline Compensation Plan

December 01, 2015

December 01, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bren & Mike, a popular affiliate duo, have recently reviewed the new compensation plan offered by Empower Network. This new uniline compensation plan has been available for around one month. However, Bren and Mike wanted to research the plan first and properly understand it before deciding on whether or not to recommend it to their members.

"We wanted to make sure that we truly understood how the new uniline compensation plan worked," says Mike Marko. "From what we can see, the plan actually encourages people to better support and encourage the people below them. In so doing, everybody succeeds. We think it is a great new system and we fully support it."

According to Bren and Mike, the new uniline compensation plan means that people will finally start promoting the Empower Network in the right way. To date, many affiliate marketers focus their promotion on the Kalatu Viral Blogging System. Once people are hooked on this, they try to upsell the next ticket item until they reach the Masters level. In this manner, they would be able to earn the highest commissions.

This is no longer the case, as can be seen in Bren & Mike's Empower Network review. The new system shows that it is much better to promote the network as a series of products. As different online businesses have different marketing needs, this is a much more appropriate way of making sure people actually only pay for what they need.

"We show our team members just how they should properly meet the needs of customers," says Bren. "We do this by focusing on individual solutions. Not everybody needs to be an expert in each of the elements of the Empower Network. Thanks to the new uniline plan, it is possible to earn the same amount of commissions, if not more, by focusing more strongly on the elements the customer actually needs."

The new Empower Network compensation plan is quite complex, but it is fairer and encourages greater revenue. The plan came into effect on November 1, 2015, and the network has released an extensive video to explain exactly how it works.
