Kansas, MO - A recent article in the Daily Herald stated many habits that people do that can cause them to wreck their teeth. Some of the habits included chewing on ice, playing sports without a mouth guard, tongue piercings, teeth grinding, sugary treats and a few more. Thankfully, the 3 in 1 mouth guard by ProDental can help solve two of the habits - playing sports without a mouth guard and teeth grinding.

When someone plays sports without a mouth guard they run the risk of severely damaging their teeth. The most common sports that use mouth guards are football, hockey, boxing or any other contact sport. A mouth guard acts a barrier of protection for their teeth. If one participates in these types of sports without a mouth guard, they could chip, or even get their teeth knocked out.

The act of teeth grinding is known as bruxism and is far more common than many may think. Teeth grinding can cause conditions such as headaches, aching jaw and stiff neck. The most common reason for teeth grinding is stress and poor sleeping habits. To prevent night time teeth grinding, a great solution is to use a night guard that acts as a barrier to prevent the upper and bottom teeth from grinding against each other.

ProDentals mouth guard is a great solution to use as a mouth guard for sports as well as for teeth grinding. The ProDental mouth guards are soft and flexible and can be molded to fit any size mouth or shape of teeth. The dental guard, once adjusted, can be inserted without much hassle. The removal of the mouth guard is just as easy as the insertion. The mouth guard can work for people with perfectly straight teeth as well as for those with crooked teeth.

One of the satisfied customers gave a five star rating on Amazon while commenting, "These mouth guards are awesome!! They are comfortable and are very versatile! I grind my teeth at night which has caused tooth damage in the past. Every mouth guard I have tried has been very uncomfortable and I was not able to sleep with it in. This mouth guard is different! I can sleep like a baby with it in and it is always in the same position when I wake up! It has not moved, shifted or fallen out!!!"

"We are glad to say that we can help eliminate at least two of the long list of habits that people do that can wreck their teeth according to the article in the Daily Herald. What is even better is that you only have to buy our product one time and use the one tray to solve two problems, so it also saves you money and time," said Don, a company representative.

The customer can order the product with confidence because it comes with a 30 day "Better Than Money-Back" Guarantee from Amazon.com. Also, if the customer mismolds a mouth guard then the customer can receive a free replacement no questions asked.
