Lexington, KY ? Tree Service Experts Lexington, a local tree service company, announced the launch of their new service today that provides tree-based solutions for enhancing outdoor recreation opportunities and promoting public health in urban areas. The innovative program is designed to help cities and neighborhoods create vibrant green spaces with trees that will provide an array of benefits, such as improved air quality, increased human connection, reduced stress, and improved physical fitness.

The program works with cities, neighborhoods, and other organizations to identify areas of opportunity for tree planting and maintenance. Through a collaborative process, the program can work with local experts such as landscapers, arborists, gardeners, and even local residents to determine which trees are best suited for the specific environment. These trees will then be planted strategically to maximize their potential benefits.

In addition to planting the trees, Tree Service Experts will also provide resources such as advice on tree care and maintenance as well as support services such as watering and pruning. The goal is to create vibrant green spaces that bring city residents joy while providing public health benefits.

Launching this service marks a significant milestone in Tree Service Experts Lexington's mission to help promote public health through tree-based solutions. By utilizing their expertise in urban forestry and environmental stewardship, they hope to create more sustainable cities by increasing accessibility to nature for all citizens. Additionally, by partnering with local organizations and businesses, Tree Service Experts' program may be able to impact the quality of life in Lexington City and the surrounding areas.
