Muse Treatment is a network of drug and alcohol addiction centers in Los Angeles and throughout Southern California, offering comprehensive treatment of substance use disorders. Programs include medically assisted detox and residential and outpatient rehab and cover the whole journey toward sobriety, from medically supervised detox to residential and outpatient rehab and continuing through post-treatment follow-up. In addition, clients learn to develop new coping mechanisms for the life struggles that might have contributed to their addiction, to improve their chances of continued sobriety after leaving treatment.

Treatment methods and therapies are individualized to meet each client's unique needs. Muse offers various services for different stages of recovery ? from structured, intensive residential care to supportive outpatient communities that are there to help each other as long as it takes.

Still, the focus is constant for all patients: learning new coping skills to enable true long-term sobriety. In addition, clients learn how to identify and prevent relapse, which is a high risk after leaving treatment.

Chelsea was not the first graduate to praise the Muse staff, a dedicated team of accredited, experienced substance-abuse experts who consistently get high marks for their supportive approach. They design a treatment program specific to each client's mental and physical needs, delivered in collaboration with various medical professionals, behavioral health specialists, addiction treatment experts and fully licensed and credentialed therapists.

After admission to Muse, the client undergoes a medical and psychiatric assessment to thoroughly understand their case. Then, an individualized treatment plan is created, and the client begins treatment experience with the preparatory phase known as detox. Clients are closely supervised during this process, which uses medical and holistic -healing strategies to relieve the often-uncomfortable effects of withdrawal.

After detox, the client moves to inpatient (residential) rehab, where they explore the root causes of their addiction and learn new, more positive ways of resolving them. Inpatient care offers total immersion in the recovery process, which has been shown to produce significantly higher recovery rates over time.

Some clients cannot reside full-time at the Muse facility because of work or family responsibilities, so they move from detox to outpatient care. This solution is no less focused than residential treatment; it only lacks 24-hour supervision. But outpatient clients undergo the same treatment as residential clients and work with the same staff. In addition, both programs offer group psychotherapy, offering a wide range of life and skill-building topics to assist clients in reintegrating into the world with new coping skills and healthy behaviors of self-care.

Muse's residential treatment also includes luxurious, structured, sober-living homes for men and women. The facilities offer a wide array of amenities and structures to promote the lifestyle of recovery in a warm, family-like environment. Rooms are shared to encourage a sense of community and accountability. The program includes progress reports, weekly house meetings, random drug testing by urinalysis, 12 Step integration and much more. It's just one of the ways Muse provides treatment solutions in a safe and upscale environment allowing for growth, change and recovery.
